COREY J. NEELY,
Corey J. Neely, aged 56, for many years a resident of Beaumont where he followed the carpentry trade, died Wednesday night at 11 o'clock at Wilkes-Barre General Hospital following a two weeks illness of complications.
Mr. Neely had not been feeling well for some time, complaining of severe pains in his stomach. On Tuesday his condition became such that he was removed from his residence at Beaumont to the hospital.
Beside his brother Archie (Neely of Beaumont he leaves no near relatives other than nephews and nieces. Until about five years ago when his sister died, Mr. Neely and his sister, Debie, who was an invalid lived together in a home near the Monroe township high school. Neither being married, they were devoted to each other, and Mr. Neely gave much of his life to the care of his sister.
He was a man highly respected in the community, liked by old and young alike and one who was never too busy to offer his assistance to a neighbor or friend.
Born in Plymouth township where he received his early schooling and where he lived for a number of years, he later moved to Beaumont to make his home there for the balance of his life. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 from Nulton Funeral Home at Beaumont with interment at Beaumont cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS
Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Devens and family wish to thank all those who offered their condolence, sent flowers or furnished automobiles at the time of their recent bereavement and funeral of Mrs. Devens' mother, Mrs. Theodosia Young.

DEAR BOSS
men began arriving with their entries. There were some mighty fine looking grasshoppers and their trainers were warning them up all around the place. Pretty soon they began to get ready for the races and they began to run off the first ones, which were the less important one. The race between Henry and another grasshopper called the "Red Dragon" was the big one at the end.
I heard them say that Henry and the Dragon had met several times and Henry had always taken the purse. This fellow that had the Dragon was kind of mean looking. The old man, my friend, was stroking Henry's back and whispering encouragement. Henry seemed a little nervous but I figured maybe he was thinking of his bath in the butter.
Well, the boss blew a whistle and the crowd stood back until they trotted Henry and the Dragon out to the middle of the round table. The two owners put their entries under the glass and, when the gun went off, they pulled the glass up and the grasshoppers started toward the outside.
Henry got a lead right away and began pulling away from the Dragon fast. The old man was yelling to him to come on and the crowd was wild.
Then came the tragedy. No one had noticed that someone had drawn a line with yellow crayon all around the table. When Henry came to it he stopped dead, turned around and began hitting it up for the centre of the table. He thought it was butter, and he was scared.
Well, the Dragon went across and won the race and the old man had a terrible time catching Henry. I got so excited I fell out of the rafters and just as they were throwing me out I heard the old man shouting that it was a frameup and that these guys had been spies and had put the line around there and bet on the Dragon.
I can tell you it was pretty exciting and if I didn't see it myself I wouldn't believe it.

Opening Thursday

WYOMING VALLEY'S MILLION DOLLAR

RENOVIZE CAMPAIGN

NATURE AND SCOPE

Renovize Wyoming Valley Campaign is an intensive community effort to promote repair, modernizing and remodeling of residences and business properties in Wyoming Valley. Originating in Philadelphia, where pledges of improvements and new work totaled over 21 million dollars, the idea has been adopted by many other cities throughout the country as a means of lifting themselves out of the depression.

METHOD OF CONDUCTING CAMPAIGN

Wyoming Valley will be subdivided into geographic divisions to which technically trained groups of volunteer solicitors coming from the membership of interested civic and trade organizations and under the guidance of competent captains and lieutenants, will be assigned for a house-to-house canvass. This canvass of every home and business property owner in Wyoming Valley will be conducted during the period April 20 to May 10, 1933, inclusive.

The property-owner will be asked to indicate the amount of money which he reasonably believes he can see his way clear to spend in repairing and modernizing his home or business property; hence the pledges of work to be done and money to be expended therefor will be made for specific items and in specific amounts, and all pledges will be held in strict confidence by the campaign committee. To encourage the co-operation of owners of homes and business properties, a comprehensive follow-up procedure will extend over a six-months' period.

The property owner will be urged to have the work done through contracting firms in his neighborhood. In fact, the guiding principle of the campaign will be to have this work done through the regular channels of business without favoring any particular trade group or individual contracting firm. Thus the momentum of this community-wide campaign for repair and modernization work will benefit every business firm in Wyoming Valley.

During the Renovize Wyoming Valley Campaign the Information and Exhibits Committee will maintain headquarters at 15 Public Square (formerly Wyoming Valley Trust Company building) where preliminary architectural and engineering advice will be available without cost. Here examples of remodeling of homes and business buildings consisting of photographs taken before and after renovizing, may be seen. Visit these headquarters or telephone 4-1007 for information. Watch local store windows for displays and exhibits of structural and decorative building materials and equipment.

BENEFITS OF THE CAMPAIGN

The economic benefits of such a campaign are manifold. Repair and modernization work can now be done at considerable saving over prices that have existed for more than fifteen years. It is conservatively estimated that construction costs are now 40% below normal. Moreover, there is substantial evidence that material prices are stiffening and if construction work is delayed too long, the property owner will lose the advantage of existing low price levels.

It is freely admitted that property owners generally have deferred necessary repairs and replacements because of a mistaken notion that the expenditure of money on their property would be criticized as extravagant in these days when so much stress has been laid upon the reduction of expenses. As a consequence, many properties have become dilapidated and out-of-date. Property in need of repair rapidly depreciates in value and utility. Obsolete property is a direct drain upon the resources of its owners. By encouraging property owners to repair, remodel and renew their property, the RENOVIZE WYOMING VALLEY CAMPAIGN proposes to enhance property values.

Every man or woman who lives in a house has been annoyed, one time or another, by things out of repair, by old-fashioned equipment, by dingy furnishings. "Some day," you have said with disgust, "some day we'll repair that wobbly step... we'll put on a new roof... add a second bathroom... build a larger porch. We've got to have a better stove in the kitchen... a larger refrigerator... That living-room hasn't been painted or papered in ten years... Some day we'll do it!"

That "some day" is here! All of these things, and many more, that will add to the market value of your property and to the sheer joy of living can be purchased now at a cost of approximately 40% less than at any time in the last 15 years.
