

To Ask P. S. C. For Action On Water Problem

Taxpayers' Association Will Carry Campaign To Harrisburg

Formal complaints against the quantity and quality of water supplied homes in Dallas will be presented to Public Service Commission at Harrisburg within the next few weeks by Dallas Borough Taxpayers' Association, it was announced this week.

A resolution authorizing the petition to the Commission was adopted at a meeting of the association in the borough high school auditorium on Monday night. A similar resolution was adopted asking for action by Dallas Borough Council.

Attorney Bert Lewis of Dallas has been appointed to prepare the petition. A committee, headed by Vincent A. Shindel, will carry out the plans to lodge the formal complaint.

Attorney Lewis conferred this week with a member of the Public Service Commission with reference to the manner in which the complaint must be made and has already made request for the forms to be followed in preparing the petition.

The communication to the Commission will be prepared according to standard forms and will request a hearing and investigation, it is expected. Members of the group are confident their move will bring quick and definite results.

The petition will embody criticisms of an alleged insufficient and impure water supply.

The meeting on Monday night was addressed by L. D. Matter, district engineer of the State Department of Health. Mr. Matter discussed the natural water resources of this region, the requirements of the town and suggested several ways to satisfy the demand for adequate water supply. His discussion was impartial and though he gave interesting statistics concerning the efficiency of municipal waterworks in communities where such units are not made political footballs his address was by no means an endorsement of such plants. He did stress that the construction of waterworks throughout the country is given a major consideration in the National Recovery Program of unemployment relief.

BEAUTIES FIND FUN IN SPORT OF "GAY NINETIES"

It started in Hollywood, it spread to the East, it brought bicycling back to Dallas and vicinity and now it has finally reached the East Coast, where beauties from the recent Atlantic City pageant join in the bicycle craze.

Imagine their mothers, who blushed when they first wore bloomers a-bicycling, if they could see these comely lasses rolling along the boardwalk. We'll bet not one of them can ride "no hands".

The most convenient time would be after 4, but if that were impossible, he would be glad to see them at any time convenient to them.

Mr. McHose also stated that there will be a demonstration of some feature of the class work by each of the grades at the meetings during the year. In October this will be given by the first and second grades.

Anderson Defeats Wagner In Dallas

Disque And Garrahan Win
Two Nominations In Borough

PRATER WINS TWO

In the warmest political contests waged in this section for many years, record votes were polled in all local districts at the primary election on Tuesday. Fair weather and sunny skies belied the stormy contests waged by candidates for borough and township offices. Voters were at the polls waiting long before many of the election boards were ready for the voting to start and crowds of partisan and independent voters thronged into the voting places all day long. Even after the polls were supposed to close belated citizens getting home from their work in Wyoming Valley squeezed their way into stuffy voting places to cast a vote for their favorite candidate.

Despite the intense rivalry and factionalism of the voters there was no disorder. Both Kingston township and Dallas township were favored with two voting machines in some of their districts, while in Dallas borough one machine had to suffice in each of the districts. The one in the North district of Dallas borough jammed early during the morning rush, delaying the voting for at least half an hour. Citizens who had to reach their work in Wyoming Valley on schedule left without voting hoping to do so on their return from the valley in the evening.

The sensation in Dallas borough was the victory of J. H. Anderson, who not only took the Republican and Democratic nominations for Burgess over G. Harold Wagner, but also won two party nominations for justice-of-the-peace in a bitter contest with Ira D. Cooke. There were indications this week that Mr. Anderson may be opposed by an independent party candidate at the general election.

Other two-nomination candidates in November will be Harry Garrahan and Wesley Himmeler who received the endorsement of the two major parties for the councilmanic positions. Peter D. Clark won the third Republican nomination for council and James Franklin, veteran councilman, nosed out Charles A. Stookey for the Democratic nomination by a margin of only three votes. Clark S. Hildebrandt, another veteran councilman went down to defeat.

In the school director contests, Henry J. Disque and Harry Pittman won both nominations. John Durbin, present incumbent, was defeated.

In a hotly contested fight for tax collector, Arthur Dungey secured the Republican nomination by a margin of twenty votes over M. B. Coolbaugh. Mr. Coolbaugh secured the Democratic nomination with a margin of six votes over Dungey. Fred M. Gordon, long-time incumbent of the office went down to defeat as did Donald Frantz who was also seeking the office.
