

Caravan Jongleurs, Dance and Song in Ten Languages Usher in Old Quebec's Yule Festivities and Sports

Old Quebec, most picturesque of Canadian cities, and far-famed for winter sports, has planned a comprehensive program lasting into March under the direction of Jack Strathdee, sports director of the Chateau Frontenac. The schedule includes tobogganing on Dufferin Terrace's triple-track slide from the shoulder of the Citadel, skating, skiing, curling, snow-shoeing across the historic Plains of Abraham, ice hockey, ice canoe races across the St. Lawrence and sleighing over the great white countryside. Then warmth, good food and good cheer in a great hostelry named for fiery Comte de Frontenac.

Nightly from Christmas Eve to New Year's Day, the Caravan Jongleurs, headed by Andrei Salama of the Chauve Souris, will stage varied entertainments in the Chateau's ballroom before audiences of native Quebecois and visiting Americans, using ten languages besides English, to show how Christmas affects the celebrant in the new and old worlds. Christmas Eve's entertainment, a musical play embodying Yuletide customs and carols of six European countries, is entitled "The Shepherd's Christmas Eve," written by Ellenor Cook who will also play its leading role. On other evenings there will be gay songs, dances and frolics inspired by seven centuries of Yuletide observance.

Long a co-worker with the famous Nikita Balleff in the Chauve Souris, Salama is an accomplished composer, adept performer on many instruments, former member of the Moscow Art Theatre, versatile linguist and pantomimist. His troupe of eight Caravan Jongleurs, includes Ellenor Cook; Arcady Stojanovsky, former Chauve Souris star; Hudson Carmody, American basso; Gene Fontaine, singer and dancer; Elizabeth Mitchell, danseuse; Hilda Suddes, English folk-dancer; and Maryann Shelley, pianist.

One of Quebec's greatest winter attractions will be the famous 120-mile Dogsled Derby on Feb. 23, 24 and 25, the classic of all dog races in North America. This race is run in daily laps of 40 miles, and has always attracted the leading dog-mushers of this continent, including Leonhard Seppala of Alaska, Emile St. Godard of Le Pas, Earle Brydges and "Shorty" Russick of Chicago.

PIONEER INN WIDELY KNOWN FOR COOKING

Tasty food, served in a pleasing and refined atmosphere, is rapidly winning a reputation for Pioneer Inn of Shavertown. The Inn is attracting a growing number of fastidious persons who find it a pleasant place for a holiday dinner or for a party.

The Inn has been functioning under its present management for several years and is one of the outstanding tea rooms in this section. Special arrangements are being made for the holidays.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Many local persons who knew her family will be shocked by the news of the death of Frances Phoenix Patton, who died at Woodford, Va., on October 29 at the age of 85. Her husband, Capt. J. E. Patton passed away thirty-five years ago and is interred in West Pittston cemetery.

Dallas Borough School Board Discusses CWA

Word that plans for laying cement walks from the old building to the new and to the sidewalk have been approved and will be carried out in a few days was received by Dallas Borough School Board at its meeting on Monday night.

The secretary was authorized to pay the teachers before the Christmas vacation.

It was decided to file liens on all delinquent 1930 taxes and the solicitor was authorized to do so before December 31.

Calvin McHose, principal, explained plans to keep the library open for the use of the residents of Dallas at times that would not interfere with school activities. Plans for obtaining a larger number of books were discussed, but no definite arrangements made.

Next meeting will be Wednesday, January 3.

Enduring Life

tion has taught us the value of adversity in that through it we can become conquerors. Thomas Hardy, great English novelist, in his artistic stories has woven a false philosophy. Nearly all his chief characters are conquered by outward circumstance. We today are learning a more optimistic philosophy of life."

Professor March concluded his moral lecture by enjoining parents and teachers to lead lives that will endure the test of time and to help mold in their children and pupils such lives. He said in no better way can they celebrate the Christmas season than in a rededication of their lives to these simple ideals, brought forth in the talk "Then, like the many seamen commemorated at Gloucester, they will be able to go down to the sea in ships" and to lead a truly significant life, not just a life that makes protestations of reform, but one that translates good intentions into living realities."

Novel Mince Meat Recipes Add Spice to Holiday Menus

Here's a cranberry mince meat pie that typifies the holiday spirit. The pie crust is cut in strips to form the Christmas tree.

MINCE MEAT, grandmother's pie favorite, has been taught new tricks for 1933-34 holidays.

Days of labor and a battalion of pots and pans used to be required to create this cold weather masterpiece. But today you just pour two and one-half cups of boiling water on nine ounces of dry, condensed mince meat and boil for twenty minutes, stirring occasionally. You have a delicious mince pie filling. For a touch of novelty try these combinations of cranberries or lemon with the mince meat and give a new flip to the traditional holiday favorite.

Mince Meat Lemon Pie
Cook one and one-half teaspoons of cornstarch with one cup of water until clear. Add one egg well beaten, 2 tablespoons of sugar and one-eighth teaspoon of salt.

Cook until the mixture thickens. Cool. Add the juice and rind of one-half lemon and the mince meat. The modern time saving way to prepare delicious mince meat is to pour two and one-half cups of boiling water on a nine ounce package of dry mince meat. Then boil for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour into a tin lined with pastry. Cover with strips of pie crust shaped like a Christmas tree. With a cookie cutter make a pastry star for the top. Bake at 400° F. about 30 minutes.

Mince Meat Cranberry Pie
Mix 1 1/2 cups of mince meat with 1 1/2 cups of cooked cranberries and 1/2 cup sugar. Prepare mince meat as above. Place in a pie tin lined with pastry. For a holiday touch cut strips of pastry in the shape of a Christmas tree and use cranberries to suggest holly berries.
