floated an $85,000 bond issue several years ago to construct the Trucksville High School and most of that amount is still outstanding.

It is expected that some construction program to relieve crowded conditions will be discussed at the next meeting of the board, in March.

The solution to the problem of crowded conditions may be solved, a director said, by the construction of additions to present buildings, the cost to be paid direct from taxation.

If no construction is authorized, it is predicted, some classes next year will be compelled to use the stage of the new high school.

Seen And Heard

By Will Wimble.

Really, I was out of ideas for the column when I dropped into the bank the other day to get warm. "Putting in or taking out?" inquired the facetious Myles Kelly, just as if there was any doubt about it. 'Twas then that Myles handed me a little booklet, well, well, there it was; the material I want for the column and I was all set for another day. And I think it is rather interesting matter.

For instance, there is a little article telling how to worry efficiently. So many persons blunder into popular pastimes without knowing. You should do your worrying now, for statistics show that 90 per cent of the things people worry about never happen. And it may help you to know that worry kills more people than war.

Then another article that is of interest refers to the "bull" and the "bear", but how many know the derivation of these familiar terms? Well, a "bull" is one who operates in expectation of a rise in stocks, or in order to effect such a rise. A "bear" is a person, who sells stocks or securities for future delivery in expecting a fall in the market. "Bear" in this sense was probably used in allusion to the proverb: "To sell the bear's skin before one has caught the bear." The "bears" and the "bulls" of Stock Exchange whose interest it is, respectively to depress and raise prices are now said to be so-called from the bear's habit of pulling down and the bull's of tossing up.

And the famous last words of our presidents. John Quincy Adams: "It is the last of earth. I am content." James Buchanan: "O Lord, Almighty, as Thou wilt!" Grover Cleveland: "I have tried so hard to do right!" James Garfield: "The people are my trust." Ulysses S. Grant: "Water." Warren G. Harding: "That's good. Go on, read some more." (To Mrs. Harding, who was reading to him.) Benjamin Harrison: "Are the Doctors here?" Thomas Jefferson: "I resign my spirit to God, my daughter to my country." James Madison: "I always talk better laying down." William McKinley: "It is God's Way. His will be done, not ours." Theodore Roosevelt: "Put out the light, please." George Washington: "It is well." Woodrow Wilson: "I'm a broken machine. But I am ready."

And now, if you don't like this stuff, I'm sorry. But don't blame me. Blame Myles. As I have stated, it was he who gave me the book from which the above excerpts are copied. He may have a kick because of my frankness, and you may have a kick, too, but I haven't, the book didn't cost me a cent.

I got a letter the other day from a reader asking us to explain what devaluation of the dollar means, we wish to state that we haven't the remotest idea.

We are also trying to find out what it means but cannot understand the explanations of business men and others who claim they know but probably don't. It's clear as mud to us.

But we do understand the devaluation of some stock we bought at $10 a share which is now selling for $2 a share and have an idea that maybe the same thing is happening to the dollar.

On our desk this morning was noted signed by "Valves in the Head with Knee Action," which said, "Come down and see me some time." Now who do you think wrote that.

But in case it was from an automobile salesman we know, we wish to announce that we are not a prospect for a new car this year, in fact we'll be lucky if we can keep up the payments on the radio.
