Keynote Of Sportsmanship

He optimistically pictured the present Rural League as a nucleus of an organization not only sponsoring basketball but other games and teams as well.

Sports experience, he claimed, was an invaluable aid in business, since it tends to develop to a higher moral plane those who participate. Mr. Davis concluded his address with this bit of verse:

When a bit of sunshine hits ye
After passing of a cloud,
When a fit of laughter gets ye
And yer spine is feeling proud,
Don't forget to up and fling it
At some soul that's feeling blue,
For the minute that ye sling it
It's a boomerang to you.

The referees present, Homer Nelson and Penn Williams, were called upon and made their bow.

Lewis Ide, player-manager of Lehman was called upon and received the handsome trophy which is symbolic of the Rural League championship.

Mr. Ide expressed thanks, and then did a bit of reminiscing. He passed on a few of the highlights of the season. He then launched into the future and visualized teams made up from Rural League members playing in the Penn State League. He stated that there is good enough material in the League to warrant an entry in the State League from this section.

Members of Lehman's perennial pennant coppers are: Lewis Ide, Ransom Elston, Frank Rusiloski, Richard Johnson, Edward Dorsett, Matthew Petritis, Lester Squire, Alphonso Rodgers, and Bryce Major.

The following attended:
Homer Nelson, Kenneth Disque, A. C. Woolbert, Jr., Ira Morris, Edward Preston, Howard Woolbert, Merle Anderson, Roland Kocher, John E. Jones, Richard D. Johnson, Edward C. Dorsett, Lewis Ide, Alphonso Rodgers, Ransom Elston, Matthew Petritis, Clarence LaBar, John Prokopchak, Will Wimble.

Hutchison Urges Anti-Smut Drive

Disease Infected 20 to 30 Per Cent Of Oat Crop Here Last Year

Luzerne County Farmers are strongly urged to treat their oats for smut, by J. D. Hutchison, County Agent. Last year many Luzerne County fields showed twenty to thirty per cent smut infection.

The infection can be easily controlled by an investment of about two cents per acre, in a formaldehyde treatment.

The materials needed for treating oats are a small hand sprayer, atomizer type holding about one quart. One pint of 40% formaldehyde for each bushel of oats to be treated. Grain sacks or blankets for covering treated oats.

The procedure is as follows:

1. Dump the oat seed on a clean barn floor or canvas.
2. Dilute one pint of 40% formaldehyde solution (formalin) with one pint of water and pour into the hand sprayer. This amount (one quart) will treat 50 bushels of seed. If fewer oats are to be treated the amount of formaldehyde should be lessened accordingly. As the formaldehyde vapor acts as a slight irritant, avoid breathing it by being careful to hold sprayer near the oats and work from one side of the pile.
3. While the oats are being shoveled from one pile to another spray each shovelful with the solution. One stroke of the sprayer gives about the right amount.
4. After all the oats are treated in this way, pile in a heap and cover with grain sacks or blankets which have been sprayed inside and out with the solution.
5. Allow the oats to remain covered at least five hours after which they may be bagged and drilled.
6. Treatment may be made any time before sowing but it is advisable to sow comparatively soon after treating.

The advantages of this method are:

1. The treatment does not wet the seed thus making it possible to treat and drill on the same day.
2. The seed is not injured when care is taken, and does not stick to the drill.
3. It will control smut very effectively.
