Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Divide Rhubarb Roots—Rhubarb clumps should be divided every 6 to 8 years. The best time to do this is in the early spring before growth starts. Each clump can be divided into 4 or 5 pieces with one or more buds on each piece.

Save Young Pigs—Seven or every 20 pigs farrowed never reach market. They die from chilling, being lain on by sows, and from thumps, scours, and intestinal parasites. Proper care at farrowing time and for several days afterward will prevent most of the loss.

Feed Chicks Early—Chicks require early feeding. They lose weight rapidly after hatching. Feed should be ready for the chicks as soon as they are placed on the brooder house floor. Unless this is done the chicks are likely to start eating litter.

Seed Winter-Killed Areas—Where winter grain has been winter-killed the ground may be disked or thoroughly harrowed in preparation for the sowing of spring barley or oats. In most cases, however, the cheapest and most satisfactory plan will be to sow clover or alfalfa as usual and harvest any surviving wheat. Where the wheat is thin or dead the seeding usually will grow rapidly and often will make a cutting of hay in August.

Orchards Need Humus—A soil containing a liberal supply of humus has proved the most desirable for orchards in a long-time experiment at the Pennsylvania State College. This condition assures greater moisture supply, promotes tree growth, and improves the yield.

Use Efficient Tools—Sharp points and polished moldboards on the plows save time, make plowing easier, and do a better job. Sharp teeth and disks on the harrows also mean better soil preparation.

John Bronson and family of Nanticoke are going to occupy the house that Mr. and Mrs. William Whitsell vacated recently.

Paul Warmouth of Kingston spent the weekend with his uncle, Paul Anstett.

Hilda Winter has returned to her duties of training in the General Hospital after being at home with an infected hand.

Rev. Sweet and Rev. Karschner are attending conference.

Virginia King is ill at her home.

Lehman Grange will meet Saturday, April twenty-eighth, at eight o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ide entertained the community orchestra, Monday evening.

Miss Frances Zimmerman, and Mr. Albert Ide were married Wednesday, April 18, at seven o'clock at the bride's home.

Mrs. Bert Bryant and Miss Ruth Karschner called on Mrs. John Rebenack, Monday evening.

Meeker Pinciole Club met Monday evening at the home of Mr. Herman Josuweit.

MISS NORA BURKE CHOSEN MAY QUEEN AT MISERICORDIA

Miss Nora Burke of Pittston has been chosen as this year's May Queen at Misericordia and Miss Mary Cowley of Towanda and Miss Mary Garrahan of Plains have been chosen as her maids of honor.

The three young women will be honored at the impressive ceremonies at the college next month. Others who will have active roles will be the class presidents: Miss Claire Sweeney, Miss Mary Donahue, Miss Mary Whalen, and Miss Sara Casey.

Miss Burke was elected last year as representative in Cleveland of the Catholic Mission Unit.

violin's singing strings was brought out.

Vocal solos by Carl Ballet, robust tenor, were enthusiastically received as were the songs rendered by the Laycock Sister's Trio, a singing group of unusual sweetness and style.

Comedy was supplied in abundance by Harry Nagle, comic singer, and Henry Millner, Yiddish impersonator. The antics of these entertainers held the onlookers in constant laughter during their appearance on the stage.

A contrast to the comedy was the mysticism of Arthur Swan, Forty Fort magician, whose feats of magic and sleight of hand trickery held the deep interest of the audience.

As the program was presented in the manner of a vaudeville bill, it would hardly be complete without a demonstration of the terpsichorean art. Various dance steps and routines were presented by the Lawler children, Billy and Evelyn. These youngsters gave their own song and dance acts in a manner almost professional in its perfection.

Franklin D. Coslett, radio announcer of WBRE, was master of ceremonies for the affair. His pleasant manner of introducing the various acts to the audience was greatly responsible for the success of the program and won favorable comment from the members of the audience.

Kingston Township should be proud of its Community Orchestra, and their conductor Mr. Millner-Camp and should support it in all its activities. Such a talented group is a great asset to the community.

Gay Murray Praises

The current issue of Hardware Age, trade publication of the hardware dealers of the United States, contains an interesting article on the Gay-Murray Company of Tunkhannock, its annual spring party and its methods of advertising. The Gay-Murray company is probably the most progressive firm of its kind catering to the farm and hardware trade in Pennsylvania. Its methods of merchandising and its manner of caring for its customers' requirements have received national recognition at the annual conventions of Hardware Dealers each year.
