Political Personalities

They want the support of the different Governor camps but they fear the opposition that would be aroused if their names appeared on any slate. So they are emphatic about their neutrality. An example of the naive declarations of the cagey candidates is Senator David A. Reed's statement: "I have heard that some favor Attorney-General Schnader for Governor and me for Senator, and that some are for Shannon and me, Patterson and me, Phillips and me and so right down the line. I have had nothing to do with this." Not what we'd call laying your cards on the table, Dave.

One Dallas man has an unusual way of selecting his candidates. He will vote for Margiotti for Governor because he suspects Margiotti was advised against running on the theory that his name would harm his candidacy. "Any man who has the gumption to run in Pennsylvania with a name like that gets my vote" says our friend.

The Selinsgrove Times said this week: "In the relativity of affairs Eugene C. Bonniwell drew first place in the field of five candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor and George H. Earle drew last place, which prompts us to offer odds that when the votes of the May primary are counted the Biblical pronouncement will continue to apply, namely, that the first shall be last and the last shall be first." All of which indicates that the Democrats are having almost as much trouble as the Republicans fighting with each other.

Margiotti will make an earnest effort for votes in the Luzerne County sector, judging by the number of billboards and signs posted this week. He was born in Punxsutawney, April 4, 1891, left school at 15 and worked until he was 18 in mines, on construction jobs, and in stores. At 18 he entered Indiana, Pa., State Teachers' College and was graduated in 1912. Then he entered the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, graduating in 1915. He practiced law in Punxsutawney. He is married and the father of two children.

John Miles, former Luzerne County Republican chairman, was selected to further David Reed's campaign for Senator this week.

Post's Layouts Win Credit From Magazine

The current issue of Geyer's Stationer, trade publication of the office supply business, contains reproductions of a recent direct mail campaign carried out by Robert D. Raeder of Kingston, Pa. Commenting on the campaign, the editor of the magazine says that is one of the most attractive and novel that has come to his attention in sometime. Layouts and plans for the campaign were the work of Howell Rees of the Dallas Post. The printing which was in two colors with illustrations was done by The Dallas Post at its shop in Dallas.

Sunday School Convention

The Fifty-Second Annual Convention of the Sunday Schools of Luzerne County will be held in the First Baptist Church, S. River St., Wilkes-Barre, May 8-9, beginning at 9:30 A. M.

The aim of the Convention is "Better Leadership—Greater Service" and the motto is "Go Quickly and Tell". Some of the high spots on the program will be: Four addresses by Dr. Bruce Curry, several hours of conferences with such leaders as Miss Ione Sikes, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Ida Button, Dr. A. J. R. Schumaker, and many other outstanding Church School Workers, two religious dramas, and four worship services of great importance. If weather permits, one of the worship services will be held on the river common, in front of the Convention Church. Every Church School is urged to send at least one representative from each department. A registration fee of fifty cents will be asked, this money will be used to help defray the expense of the Convention.
