Strain Telling
On Hauptmann

Misericordia News

The thirteenth Annual Meeting of the Debater's Association of Pennsylvania met at Harrisburg recently. College Misericordia was represented by the following young women: Madeline Burke, Mary Donahue, Margaret Husic and Janet Reilly.

A very impressive ceremony took place on Monday when fifty freshmen were invested. The students commenced their line of march on the second floor, from where they marched down the marble steps to the foyer, where the investiture took place. A very impressive scene followed as the students, wearing caps and gowns, proceeded to the grotto, where they sang hymns. They then wound their way around the campus until the flag pole was reached, where the pledge of allegiance was given.

The members of the Junior Class are busy preparing for a dance which will be given on November the ninth. Miss Mary Whalen, of Wilkes-Barre, is general chairman.

supper given by the Ladies' Aid on Tuesday evening, at the Grange Hall, and listened to interesting talks on the spirit of mission work by Rev. Wilton Dubick of Bennett Memorial Church, Wilkes-Barre, and Rev. W. S. York.
