HERE'S THE BIGGEST NEWS YET IN THE $650 CONTEST

O. K. Dallas. Here comes the most sensational vote-getting opportunity to date in the big Trade Expansion Contest, two different ways to send those votes soaring skyward for your favorite candidate. Read the explanation below carefully and then sign that thar coupon and hand it over to Uncle Sam's postman so it will get to us in time. This is news—and it's your big chance to get behind your contestant and boost him or her up among the leaders who have been selling subscriptions all week.

1 For every new subscription you bring to The Dallas Post today or tomorrow you will receive double the number of votes on your subscription trade card, plus a bonus of 100,000 votes for each dollar. That means 400,000 votes for a year's subscription which ordinarily would bring you only 100,000 votes. Now, listen to this. When the total number of new subscriptions you have sold reaches ten you will receive a bonus of 25,000,000 votes. If you have a few new subscriptions to your credit already go after this one hard.

2 Perhaps you have neglected to pay your subscription to The Post. You can tell when your subscription expires by looking at the date printed on the yellow label with your name. If the figures say 2-15-'35 that means that your subscription expired on February 15, 1935. You can help your favorite contestant by paying that subscription now. Accounts 1 to 3 months old will receive 5,000 votes per dollar and 25,000 free bonus votes if the account is paid in full. On older accounts the votes go as high as 100,000 votes per dollar and 1,000,000 free bonus votes if paid in full.
