PINDARIC WINGS

The tundra of the Arctic plains—
Stretched treeless forth,
To meet the sky-ship that had dared—
The skirted fog; the unblazed trail,
Grey wounded wings, aspiring heights
Where falls the night and Northern Lights,
Poor wings! Once so pindaric 'gainst the blue,
Settled to earth—which claims all things
Save souls who seeth with longing
For the freedom of the open road.
Pioneers, kindred of spirit,
Cemented with a bond of love—
For that which hides itself
From the ken and sight of man,
Brave hearts, unscared by fear's red brand,
Encased in armour of the Faith,
"Within His hand, God holds all things."
"Though pilgrimage be brief,
Dare!

Attempt!
Achieve!
Virginia Harding,
Trucks-ville.

Summer Prices On Printing

WHY DO EXPERIENCED buyers of printing have a great part of their work done during the Summer? Because their experience has taught them to expect more careful work and better prices during the slack summer months when printers make extra concessions in order to keep their men and equipment busy.

More than that, the season is the best one for checking over office supplies and stationery and printed forms to fill in exhausted lots and prepare for the busy fall months . . . so that when September rolls around the decks will be cleared for profitable action.

Why not have your letterheads, business cards, office forms or other kinds of printing done now when you have the time to give them your full attention and when we can make it economical for you to have your printing done in quantities which will lower your costs. Why not have us give you prices on your printing.
