Ronald Doll, principal, asked for $62 worth of supplies for the art department, which were approved. Mr. Doll was given permission to purchase library books to cost not more than $150. Use of the high school auditorium for a Halloween dance to be given by Dr. Henry M. Laine Fire Co., was granted and the J. A. B. Class of the M. E. Church was given permission to serve soup to the school children at noon on Thursdays.

"Elusive Pimpernel" At Kingston Theatre

As a friendly service in appreciation of the growing patronage of residents on the West Side and the Back Mountain Region, Kingston Theatre has secured the outstanding film, "The Pimpernel", with Leslie Howard, for showing on Thursday, October 10.

In announcing the film, George D. Bittlinger, manager, says: "If you love the bouquet of rare old wine, the splendor of old gold, the exquisite tone of a painting from the brush of a master—if you love the finest gifts of the theatre, you can never forget Leslie Howard as Sir Percy Blakeney in "The Scarlet Pimpernel".

The story is a famous one by Baroness Orczy, about an English gentleman-adventurer whose amazing exploits in aiding French aristocrats to escape the guillotine evoked the quatrains "They seek him here, they seek him there, those Frenchies seek him everywhere, is he in Heaven, or is he in Hell, that damned elusive Pimpernel?" It is one of Leslie Howard's greatest roles.

CHURCH A NUISANCE

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Because neighbors claimed that services in the Church of God constituted a nuisance, the pastor was convicted by a jury.

Mystery Player Star On 109th Grid Team

A widely-known scholastic and collegiate football star from Wyoming Valley will play with 109th Field Artillery football team next Sunday but his face will be masked and his identity will be known only by the question mark which will replace the number on his jersey.

First Lieut. Henry L. Lee of Lehman is assistant manager and assistant coach of the team which will employ the novel stunt. From the style of the player's game, from his size, his voice and his plays, the audience will try to guess his identity. Those who are successful will receive season passes. Even the players will not know who their team-mate is when the game begins. In the game Sunday at Artillery Park, the 109th eleven will meet the Larksville Ex-High team.

ARTS AND CRAFT EXHIBIT

Mrs. Joseph Wallo, Mrs. Mary Polasky, Mrs. Brenza, all of Dallas and Mrs. Peter Jurcak of Shavertown, are among those who contributed articles for the Slovak Arts and Craft Exhibit in the Special Exhibits Building of the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society, South Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre. This is the second in the series of national exhibits being fostered by the society, the first having been arranged by the Polish women of the valley last fall.

Drop Case Against Local Milk Dealer

The State Milk Control Board dropped charges of price regulation violation against Shadyside Dairy of Dallas this week after proof had been given that criticism was unjust. Similar cases against seven other Luzerne, Wyoming and Lackawanna County dealers were dismissed.

Dallas Will Meet City Team Today

Local Eleven Lost To Tunkhannock, 20-13, Last Friday

Dallas High School football team, which lost to Tunkhannock, 20-13, will go against the sensational Meyers High School eleven, at Wilkes-Barre this afternoon. Since the city eleven upset the gridiron forecast last week by defeating Nanticoke, it is likely that the local players will have another unfair match on their hands.

Last week Dallas fought hard against defeat at Tunkhannock but lost by the margin of a touchdown and conversion to the fast up-river team. Dallas scored early in the first quarter but failed to convert. In the second quarter Tunkhannock scored and the half ended, 7 to 6, favor of Tunkhannock.

Tunkhannock made its second touchdown early in the third quarter. Dallas made its second score by alert action when it retrieved a ball which had fumbled through a bad pass from center. Tunkhannock made its third touchdown in the final quarter. St. Nicholas high school grid team will play at Kingston Township this afternoon. Last year the township eleven defeated St. Nicholas by a 52-0 score.

Beloved Blind Man Called By Death

Peter Brong Dies In Sleep In Home At Evans Falls

ed at his killing in walking about the store and putting his hands upon the man he was after. His credit accounts he kept in his head until some one came to write the items in his books for him and no one ever found him mistaken.

Long after blindness stopped him from farming he continued to trade horses shrewdly and profitably. He never complained about his handicap which, as the years passed, ceased to be a handicap and became, rather, a fount of philosophy and kindness.

He had hundreds and hundreds of friends and his blindness seldom prevented him from remembering them. Frequently a friend returned after a long absence and Peter would drop his head in a deep, studied effort to recall the voice. Usually he could call the name of the friend. His close friends he knew always by the sound of their walk and their voice.

A few years ago he married for the second time and last week he completed arrangements to sell his store and property to his brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Brong were to live in the rooms in the rear of the store.

At 86 he was stalwart and youthful, his cheeks pink and his face unwrinkled. Visitors who found him sitting quietly puffing contentedly at his pipe, swore there was no better conversationalist in this section.

He was buried on Tuesday afternoon at Beaumont Cemetery, with an old boyhood friend, Rev. R. Bruce Bellas of Raeburn, presiding.

Either we're being drawn into the Italo-Ethiopian diplomatic tangle or someone is trying to kid us. We can't make out the scrawled note we received this week. All it says is "If won't me all be they at once, dipped me a postage card." We've come back to it twenty times since we received it but the decoding still eludes us. If anyone figures it out, let us know.

A Safe Place

New York City, N. Y.—Joseph S. Kraus stole $500 in cash and bonds from his mother. Judge Lester W. Patterson sentenced him to from fifteen years to life as a fourth offender. Kraus's mother, who brought the charges, explained "I don't care anything about the certificates. . . . But I want him in a safe place. Then he won't kill anyone, as he threatens, and won't have to die in the electric chair."

SAW STORM CLOUD IN AIR

Newark, N. J.—D. W. Tomlinson, on a non-stop high altitude flight from Kansas City, reported seeing the tail end of the Florida hurricane while he was flying over Columbus, Ohio. He said it was enormously high, apparently ranging up to 35,000 or 37,000 feet.

or subjected that person to shame or ridicule. We cite these instances merely to show that we are not engaged in the business of ferreting out information to break up homes or damage people's reputations. We wish people who order us to kill the story about their automobile accident or their burglaries would remember that.

Last week, for instance, a man called up to tell us we couldn't run a story in which he figured. Legally, there was nothing in the story to prevent us from using it. It was news—public property. He had started the story himself so we assumed it was truthful. It wasn't as important to us as it seemed to be to him so we could easily have kicked it had he approached us in a more neighborly sort of a way. Instead, he blasted us with dire threats of what would happen to us if we published it. At first, we were inclined to slam the receiver on his belligerent shouting and forget about it. It was one of those sunny mornings, though, and we launched into a complete discussion of the ethics of his case. Toward the end, we think, he got the idea.

What we told him, in effect, was that newspaper editors don't like to be told point-blank that they can't publish any story. Most of the good editors we have known will listen to a reasonable excuse for withholding a story. They will not give in to threats. You may count as one of the best pieces of advice this column ever gave the fact that you will have better success in withholding something from print if you first "ask", instead of "command". It's a good thing to remember, especially if you expect to get into trouble soon.
