tle these big schools it would be a different story. In the first place, there wouldn't be any team.

"We may have gotten through last year without any trouble. But what happened this year? To a lot of people it's just another broken leg. But put those people in William Templin's place. Would they have the guts to fill in a place on a team, as Bill did? No! I don't think so.

"After football games last year you could walk down to the Main Street in Dallas and hear the All-Americans telling how the team should be run, what players to use, and also criticizing the fellows on the team. But just how many of those people would play in one of those fellow's positions on the team? And just how many of those people paid to see the team play? Not many.

"If those people would go to games and pay and not talk so much, Dallas High School wouldn't have to go out of its way to play those bigger high schools, just to get a few dollars. I, for one, went through a season just as the fellows are going through now, and know just what happens to them and to the team. The majority of inexperienced fellows get nervous and are afraid to play any longer, and the result is that the team is on the downgrade. And then the few people who have school spirit lose interest in the team.

"Well, I hope in the years to come Dallas Borough will open its eyes and see its mistake and start playing teams in their own class."

To Bill Disque, last year's star on the Dallas Borough High School team, now a member of Uncle Sam's army in the Panama Canal Zone, our deepest thanks for a letter which, we suspect, will do more for the football teams in this section than anything we have yet written.
