"Truckin'" Promised By New York Deb As Part of Merrymaking at Birthday Ball

"Truckin'", Manhattan's latest dance craze, seems destined to truck on down from Harlem to Park Ave.—and across the nation.

That's the opinion of smart debutantes already organizing here for the 1935 Birthday Ball for the President at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The debs have already come out in favor of taking the new step away from Harlem and the night clubs and using it as one of the merrymaking features of the Birthday Ball on January 30, when more than 5,000 of the benefits will be held simultaneously from coast to coast.

"With all due respect for the waltz and those who dance it and frown on truckin'," says Miss Gerry Bergh, speaking for the younger set of the New York Social Register, "our Birthday Ball committee is planning the festivities on the basis that everybody should come to the Waldorf-Astoria and have a good time. And there are a lot of us who feel that truckin' is part of a good time in the minds of thousands of young folks in our generation. We're for it—and we hope that the National Committee will come out in favor of it at other parties across the nation."

National Committee officials here said today that they had no objections to truckin' or any other novel ideas that local committees may want to introduce at the parties.

"A good time for everybody is our chief interest," according to Colonel Henry L. Doherty. "Of course," he added, "the proceeds from the benefits will go toward waging national war on infantile paralysis. But we agree with local chairmen that the parties themselves should be based on merrymaking for all who come, and if truckin' is favored by some of the merry-makers—more power to them!"

Colonel Doherty stated that 70 per cent of the funds raised this year will remain in the community holding the benefit, to be used for after-treatment in the rehabilitation of local infantile paralysis victims. The remaining 30 per cent will be used by the Warm Springs Foundation of New York to forward their nationwide war on the disease.

Colonel Doherty also pointed out that novel entertainment ideas were not new to the Birthday Ball parties. Among the features last January were the "Most Unpopular Man" contest, won by a prominent citizen in Mount Carmel, Ill., who publicly confessed he ate crackers in bed.

Hartley Relates Sea Experiences

Former Commander Of Leviathan Speaks In Dallas

Eight hundred and forty trips across the sea or the equivalent of "five round trips to the moon", furnished the background for Commodore Herbert Hartley's lecture delivered before members of the Dallas Women's Club and their friends in the Dallas M. E. Church social rooms Tuesday evening.

Commodore Hartley who until recently served as commander of the S. S. Leviathan, now being scrapped off the coast of Hoboken, had more difficulty reaching Dallas through snow-drifts than he had encountered making his trans-Atlantic voyages. As a matter of fact the storm prevented his appearing before the Wilkes-Barre Rotary Club and the Wyoming Valley Women's Club where he was scheduled to speak during the day. Commenting on his lateness he explained that since he was now on land he probably would be considered late, but that a ship was never late. When it does not arrive, it is merely "overdue".

With these as his opening remarks, Commodore Hartley continued with salty stories of his 35 years at sea during which time he rose from a cabin boy at $15 a month to captain of what was until a few years ago the world's largest steam ship.

Woman Influenced Youth

He reached dramatic heights when he told of his first voyage as a boy to Southampton, England, where in a group of singing sailors on New Year's Eve he met an old lady who greatly influenced his life by encouraging him to take his books with him to sea and study nights to be a captain. On each of his succeeding voyages whenever he was in Southampton he visited her, and it was she who sewed his first promotion stripe on his sleeve. His last visit to her was as a retired captain of the Leviathan two years ago when she was 92 years old and nearly blind.

Celebrities His Guests

During his years of service on the Leviathan, world famous celebrities were his guests. Among those he was always glad to see coming up his gang-plank were Queen Marie, Will Rogers, Marie Dressler, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. On one occasion shortly after the Miami hurricane when Will Rogers was aboard, an impromptu benefit was staged and $68,000 raised in contributions for the relief committee. Will was chairman.

From talking of his intimate acquaintance with celebrities and stars of the screen, Commodore Hartley switched to tales of heroic rescues, natural phenomena and routine duties of the sea. He pointed with pride to the nine marriages performed by him at sea, which won for him the newspaper nickname of "the marrying skipper". He even boasted of making an introduction, a marriage and a divorce for one couple in three voyages.

In contrast with the glamor of the sea, were his descriptions of the loneliness of the night watches, broken rudders, fire aboard ship and mountainous waves that could toss the great liner two city blocks out of its course.

The lecture which was sponsored by the Dallas Women's Club was poorly attended due to the bad road conditions.

New Appointees To Fill Jobs In Local Schools

Miss Sara Williams of Georgetown took up her duties as school nurse this week in the Dallas Borough school and Miss Dolores Craig of Fernbrook assumed her duties as school typist and secretary.

Both young women are working under the supervision of PWA and will continue until the conclusion of the school term.

CALENDAR PARTY

Mrs. LeGrand Goes Home To Attend Mother's Funeral

Mrs. Lewis LeGrand of Baldwin Street, Dallas, has been called to Adams, Nebraska, by the death of her mother, Mrs. U. A. Atkins. Mrs. Atkins' death came as a severe shock to her daughter who knew that she had been ill for several days but did not consider her in a critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkins are well-known in this community since they spent the winter here with their daughter and family a few years ago. Summer before last the LeGrands spent their vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Atkins; that was the time that Mrs. LeGrand had seen her mother.

Mrs. LeGrand will not return for the next ten days or two weeks as she expects to visit friends and relatives while in the West.

SEND IT TO THE POST

Every week you get a message from us. We'd like to hear from you once in a while. More and more social items are being called and mailed in to us each week—but we won't be satisfied until we hear from every single one of our readers. Have you been to a party or had a guest or even a bad cold? Your neighbors would like to know—and we'd just love to tell them. And please, when you send items in, tell where each person lives—"John Jones of Scranton was the guest of Mr. J. W. Smith of Alderson last week-end." It is so much more interesting to read about Mr. Smith when you are certain just which one he is.

JOT THIS DOWN WHERE YOU CAN REMEMBER IT

While residents of Dallas and the eastern United States were enjoying a week of old-fashioned weather with all its invigorating effects, their friends who had gone to Florida to escape such weather were shivering in unheated cottages and bungalows with outside temperatures of 38 degrees. In Florida that is cold with a capital C. No matter how far below zero the temperature sinks in the northern states, homes are always good and warm with anthracite heat. Way down south where the poinsettias grow they have forgotten how to heat their houses, so while you are enjoying the cozy warmth of a well heated home pity those poor devils who are shivering down there at 38 degrees with no cozy fires to warm them.
