Alice Davies Wins Honor At Seminary

Awarded Membership To Cum Laude Society Fourth Time

Alice Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davies of Parsonage Street, Dallas, was one of three members of the Senior Class at Wyoming Seminary who received Cum Laude keys yesterday. This is the fourth consecutive year that Miss Davies has been awarded this honor.

The Cum Laude Society is based on high scholarship in secondary schools and is similar to the Phi Beta Kappa Society in colleges. For membership students must have been enrolled at the Seminary for at least one academic year; they must receive an average of 88 for the semester with no marks below 78; they must carry a schedule with at least 4 major subjects (This excludes all first year languages and commercial subjects.) Alice does not confine her activities to the class room. She is President of the Girls' Athletic Association, was a member of the hockey team this fall, served as captain of the basket ball team last year, and is active in scout
