LEHMAN SENIORS SCORE SUCCESS WITH PLAY, "THRU THE KEYHOLE"

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT PRODUCTION

By VERA WHITESELL
Senior Class, Lehman High School

The Senior Class of Lehman High School scored a decided hit with its annual drama, "Thru The Keyhole", a three-act comedy, on Tuesday night.

The play was written about the actions of seven young people and Grandma Tierney in the Tierney home. Among the characters were a foxy old grandma, a charming young actress, and an aggressive, attractive girl, who is bent upon marrying Jim Tierney.

The other characters were interestingly drawn as these. All the actors had previous experience, most of them having taken part in the Junior drama "Drums in My Heart", last year. On Tuesday night all gave a splendid performance, taking full advantage of the humorous situations and the lively dialogue.

A Popular Class! Student Tells Why

By FRANCES MEKEEL

The Junior Class is well represented in extracurricular activities having six girls and three boys on the basketball squad; one boy on the wrestling team; the head cheerleader and five other girls on the cheerleading squad; two boys and three girls on the gym team; and four members represented in the High School Orchestra.

The manager of our girls' basketball team happens to be a Junior and one member of the class took part in the Amateur Contest sponsored by the Blue Ribbon Club of Dallas on January 30.

Curricular activities as well as outside activity do not suffer from lack of support by this active class. Recently, two members upheld the negative side in the debate given by Problems of Democracy Class. A series of interviews showing how and in what manner one should apply for a position were very carefully arranged and presented by the members of this class as a unit in English.

Senior Troop Girl Scouts A GIRL SCOUT'S DUTIES

(An Editorial)

By ARVILLA SWAN

Girl Scouts put into action the third law—"A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and help others."

Many Girl Scouts make gifts for poor children at Christmas time. They also repair, paint and cover old toys to be given away. Many troops make bagettes and dresses and toys (out of oil cloth and cloth) for the Red Cross at Christmas time and at various times during the year. They sometimes give plays, teas, dances, card-parties and other amusements to raise money to give to crippled children.

If they see some one ill or hurt, they try to help them. If a small child is being abused by the older ones, a Girl Scout sees to it that he is left alone.

Home Courses Studied At Beaumont High School

By ISABELLE KUNKLE
Beaumont High School

Everyone donned their apron and applied their most intelligent look last Friday only to take them off without using them.

What this is all about is that last Friday afternoon, Miss Gans, cooking, sewing and home decorating teacher, was scheduled to attend our school but due to misunderstanding she did not come. Nevertheless, she did come this Friday, and organized two classes, one cooking and the other sewing.

The first class includes the Senior girls in the Dramatics club, who will take cooking every Friday at 10:30 and serve lunch at 12:00. They all feel that Miss Gans will be very helpful to them and appreciate her assistance.

Her second class, sewing, will be at 1:30. This includes those women outside of school who wish to take sewing. They have received instructions on making slips and will do so this Friday, coming (February 14).

We wish to say that anyone wishing to carry this class will kindly come in Mr. Austin's room every Friday at 1:30 if possible.

ZERO LOVE

By Tom Best
(Dallas R. D. 4)

Winter leaves its mark on me;
It lasts 'till late in spring.
The snow and ice they alternate,
And troubles to me bring.

The first of things that worries me
Is how to start my car
No matter what precautions
I take, that's how things are.

The oil's been thinned, the grease made light,
And in the radiator
I've put my trust in anti-freeze;
Dame weather; How I hate her.

Around the house I've stuffed some pads
To keep the wind outside.
But when the wind comes from the north
It far from warms my hide.

When I go out I button up
And think of warm things only,
But frost-bite wrecks my lovely skin,
Oh hell! Where's spring? Baloney.

BIRD LIFE IN WINTER

By MRS DAVID W. SPRY
Shavertown

During the long winter season this region passes through a period when our feathered friends find little vegetation, except a few weed seeds and some berries, for food.

During this season, the birds who have braved the cold spend much of their time feeding on pests that infest our trees. If it were not for the birds, all vegetation would soon disappear so we should encourage children now to help in protecting the wild life during its most difficult time of the year.

Before the warm winds awake all plant and insect life, much must be done. During the severe weather we must all do everything we can to help.

The feeding of our birds is a simple but very important matter. So much waste is practiced, it is pathetic that any life, no matter how small, should perish.

Save your bread crumbs, and place them in a feeder or on a board or tin which is protected from rain and snow. Do not scatter them abroad, since much is lost if this is done. Pieces of meat and suet—tied to a tree or any place out of reach of dogs and cats are appreciated by the little downy and hairy woodpeckers, chickadees and nuthatches.

These birds are little heroes when they attack pests. Feed them, and receive real satisfaction when they come in numbers to you every day.

Our little song sparrows and juncos gather their food from or near the ground, but a form of hopper feeding is most practical. Sunflower seeds, hemp, millet, fine cracked corn and cracked wheat make good combinations, placed on a board nailed to a stump, or in some sheltered spot.

The birds which build in hollow trunks or branches of trees will use man-made substitutes. Some protection in the form of little homes should be provided for the little singers. To do this intelligently, we must know what such birds require. Four things are necessary:

1. The inside of the box should be large enough to be comfortable for the bird for whom it is intended.

IT'S TIME TO TRIM

Trimmed trees and grapevines always produce better fruit and more of it. We will be glad to furnish you with the better types of saws and hand pruners—double edge saw, 90c, 24 inch hand pruners, $1.80.

HUNTERS ATTENTION

In the deep snow the grouse, pheasants and quail are starving—Game Protector Spencer will furnish the grain if you will put it in the woods where the birds can get it. Remember, fellows, another hunting season is coming and this is your chance to show how good a sport you are, by saving the same.

Speaking of the deep snow reminds us that we can furnish you a good power wood saw outfit with a 20 inch saw for $15.00. Spend less time in the snow and more by the fire.

Ed Lott at South Montrose found that his old steam boiler couldn't stand the pace during cold weather. As we have Richardson boilers in stock, we were able to furnish him a new one promptly.

If you need electric light fixtures, our values should suit you. Just now, we are changing to the latest design and have a good assortment of old models which we will sell cheap to make room for the new ones. $7.50 fixtures will be sold for $4.50 and like reductions on all the old models.

Students Debate Important Issue

Affirmative Adjudged Winner By Other Members Of Class

By FRANCES MEKEEL

A new and interesting feature of the Problems of Democracy Class which differed from the usual class discussion was a well organized debate.

The question for the debate was "Resolved—That Government Ownership of Public Utilities Is a Detriment to the American People".

The affirmative was represented by members of the Senior Class who were Nancy Lamoreaux, first speaker, and Grace Bertram, second speaker. The negative was upheld by members of the Junior Class, Ralph Johnson, first speaker, and Florence Rusiloski, second speaker.

The other members of the class judged the affirmative team better because of the points it brought out and because of its manner of presentation. Both sides gave specific examples which added to their success in this debate.

Beaumonters Ready For Play Tourney

Winner To Appear In Annual Tournament Next At Bloomsburg

By JEAN HILBERT

A great amount of talent was shown in some students who participated in the Play Tournament held at Bloomsburg Teachers' College last year.

Our school received the loving cup given in B class when they presented the heart-throbbing one-act play, "The Valiant".

In 1934 honorable mention was given to Willard Webber, who portrayed the part of the impatient father in "Speaking to Father".

This year the three classes in Senior High School are each going to present a one-act play to be held February 17, 1936, at Beaumont High School. From which one play will be selected to compete in the tournament at Bloomsburg, February 28, 1936.

The Senior class will present "Elmer" a comedy; Junior class, "The Darkest Hour" a tragedy, and the Sophomore class is as yet undecided.
