D. B. Schoonover has purchased a new team of horses.

At the Baptist church: Sunday School, 10 a. m., preaching at 11 o'clock, by Rev. M. Rasmussen.

Services at the M. E. church next Sunday: Sunday School, 10 a. m.; preaching, 8 o'clock by Rev. Thomas Kline.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gay of Dallas called here on Tuesday afternoon. They had been to Forkston to attend the funeral of Mrs. Harry Rau.

The Vernon baseball team will play Noxen on the Vernon grounds, Sunday, at 2:30. We think this will be an interesting game as both teams are pretty peppy.

The Ladies' Aid will give their annual Decoration Day dinner, Monday, May 31. The menu follows: baked ham, mashed potatoes, cottage cheese balls with water cress, cabbage salad, creamed asparagus, radishes, strawberry short cake with whipped cream, coffee. If you are out for a holiday trip come to the church dining rooms and get a good square meal.

Bird Lore Theme Of Talk Tonight

Philadelphia Naturalists At Dallas M. E. Church At 8:45

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Griscom of Briar Bush Bird Sanctuary at Roslyn, near Philadelphia, will speak tonight at 7:45 at Dallas M. E. Church on their experiences with birds.

Mr. and Mrs. Griscom have a wide reputation for their work in protecting birds and their talk, while interesting to adults, too, will be especially valuable to boy and girl scouts. They have maintained their Briar Bush Sanctuary for many years at their home in Roslyn and have lectured and written many magazine articles based upon their interesting experiences.

MATCH YOUR TROUSSEAU TO YOUR EYES

These Wedding Veils Dramatize Different Types, According to Designer Who Urges Women to Solve Makeup Problem Before Planning Wardrobe.

Brilliant Young Designer Sees Proper Make-Up Key To Costume

Whether you are planning an elaborate trousseau or a spring outfit pared down to the simplest essentials, you must begin with a key color, according to Elizabeth Hawes, brilliant young American designer who has done as much as Hollywood to make the fashion world American-conscious.

"I don't believe in a solid color wardrobe," she said recently when interviewed in her New York salon. "It's dull. I never build a costume without using at least three colors. Colors, you know are intro-active—they add interest to each other as well as to the wearer. But it is only sensible to start by choosing some sort of color as a kind of theme song.

"Before deciding on as important a thing as a basic color, a girl should be properly made up," she continued. "With the right make-up she can wear certain shades of every color. That old bugbear, 'I can't wear this—I can't wear that,' is put completely to rout."

How can the bride make up so that she will look her best in this all important trousseau—and more important still, pick the really right clothes at the very start? By beginning with her personality color, the color of her eyes.

All women fall into four major eye-types—blue, green, hazel or brown. Most of us know by experience that warm, glowing shades bring out the hidden lights in brown eyes, for instance. (Cool, violet tones are equally flattering to blue eyes.) And when you emphasize your eyes you key up the feature that best expresses your own personality. Choose a make-up that is blended to your eyes—powder, rouge, lipstick, and mascara and eye-shadow, too. Then sally forth to choose your trousseau, armored with the flattering results of this very expert advice.

Miss Hawes is well qualified to give trousseau advice, as she is responsible for the wardrobes of many of New York's most prominent brides.

"First in color importance is your coat," she says. "Next are the accessories. You see, the average woman has a choice of only three fundamental accessory colors—black, blue, brown. If these and her coat match, she will find that she can include almost any other colors she likes in her costume."

Last but not least—the wedding dress. "Girls are simply crazy to spend money on wedding dresses unless they have unlimited funds for clothes," claims this forthright young designer. "Let sentiment solve that problem—wear Mother's wedding gown. Whatever your dress is, though, dramatize it! Don't swathe yourself in bunches of tulle. The fashionable veil is a simple square of tulle held by a band." As for the bridesmaid, "No hats; Flowers perhaps, or tiny feathers—or tinner veils. No gloves! No bouquets! Living flowers somewhere on the dress."

One last word about color. Fuschia, says Miss Hawes, is the coming shade. Fuschia is one of those shades which many women think it is difficult to wear. So remember her suggestion about makeup; study yourself—choose makeup that is so becoming that you can flirt with even the most trying off-shades, and still come out winner.

Sunday Services At St. Paul's Lutheran

"The Springs of Sympathy" will be the subject of the sermon at the 11 a. m. service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Shavertown, on Sunday morning. The sermon will be based upon the parable by Jesus, "The Rich Man and Lazarus."

The series of topics based upon well-known characters of the New Testament will be concluded with "Paul, The Preacher of Pure Doctrine." This will be the last Vesper service until September. Next Sunday, June 6, St. Paul's Church will begin the summer schedule of services: Matins at 8:30 a. m.; Sunday School, 9:45 a. m., and the morning service, 11.

Crowd Flocks To Spring Dog Show

Scureman And Stapleton Take Prizes At Carverton

Dog fanciers from near and far came again last Sunday to the annual Spring dog show at the estate of Dr. Fred Chandler at Carverton. This event, conducted under the auspices of the Wyoming Valley Kennel Club, has become a fixture on the county's sporting calendar. The show was high class, attended by many of the valley's prominent dog owners.

There was a large entry of canine aristocrats of superb quality. Many of these animals have been entered in America's canine classic to be held next Saturday on the expansive Giraldia Farms, Madison, N. J., owned by Mrs. Hartley Dodge. This event will be the largest dog show in the world, having an entry of over 4,000, thereby surpassing the famous English show held at Crofts.

"Best in show" at the Carverton show was awarded to a beautiful Great Dane female, owned by Murray Scureman of Huntsville. He was presented with a magnificent silver trophy donated by Senator Leo C. Mundy.

R. M. Stapleton, pharmacist of Luzerne and Kingston, had a veritable field day with his Boston Terriers, placing first in every class for sales, as well as "Best of Breed" with his classy little showman, Dix Dazzler. In the Novice class Dix Dazzler's Dandy a ten month puppy, acquired the blue ribbon. Hagerty Gran Sun's Front Page, a tyro brought out for the first time, won the Sterling Silver trophy for best puppy under three months. Front Page is a gorgeous headed, beautifully marked dark seal puppy, that will be hard to defeat at maturity. He is a son of Hagerty Gran Sun a prominent Philadelphia Boston.

Mrs. Ralph Fritz and children of Parrish Street are visiting Mrs. Fritz's sister in Wilkes-Barre.

CUP AND WINNER

The new plans call for a two-story structure, 38 feet wide by 60 feet deep, with a large storeroom on one side and a room suitable for housing the fire equipment on the down floor. The second floor will be finished to accommodate meetings and social affairs. A basement is to be constructed with the hope that before long bowling alleys can be constructed.

As far as is possible the firemen hope to be able to employ local labor and local contractors on the work.
