Dallas Area Put In New District

Reapportionment Bill Awaits Signature Of Governor Earle

The final step in slicing the Dallas area from the present Sixth Legislative District and putting it in a sprawling rural political division which will extend from the Northern to the Southern border of Luzerne County will be taken when Governor Earle fixes his signature to the reapportionment bill, which has been passed in both houses.

Governor Earle's signature to the measure is expected daily. The bill was introduced by Representative Zappala of Pittsburgh and had the enthusiastic support of the county's Democratic delegation. It increased the county's unit to the Legislature by one member and gives Luzerne County eight legislative districts, instead of seven, as at present.

Dallas will now be in the Seventh Legislative District. Wilkes-Barre City, which has been the Seventh Legislative District, will be known as the Eighth. It will have two representatives.

The Sixth Legislative District, after being divided, is constituted by the Boroughs of Duryea, Exeter, Luzerne, Swoyerville, West Pittston, West Wyoming and Wyoming.

The new Seventh Legislative District will include the Boroughs of Courtland, Dallas, Forty Fort, Pringle, New Columbus, Shickshinny, Nescopeck and Conyngham, the first district of the Third Ward of Kingston, the Fourth and Fifth Wards, the Third District of the Sixth Ward and the Seventh Ward of Kingston Borough, and the townships of Dallas, Exeter, Franklin, Jackson, Kingston, Lake, Lehman, Ross, Fairmount, Hunlock, Union, Huntington, Salem, Nescopeck, Black Creek, Sugar Loaf, Butler and Hollenback.

Since the majority of these towns are Republican strongholds it is almost certain that the representative elected from this district will be Republican. The reapportionment, however, strengthens the Democratic leadership in other districts in the county and should assure a Democratic majority in the county's representation at Harrisburg for some years to come.

After Governor Earle signs the bill there can be no redistricting of the legislative districts in the county until the next decennial census of the Federal government, in 1940.

Many Lakeside Buildings Will Have To Be Changed

State Department Of Forests And Waters Demands That Structures On State Property Meet Requirements Of Height And Size; Levy Must Be Paid For Buildings

ENFORCEMENT PROTECTS BEAUTY OF LAKE

Thousands of dollars worth of renovations to buildings which have been constructed on State property around Harvey's Lake will have to be made within the next few years to bring them within the requirements of the state Department of Forests and Waters.

The changes must be made as a result of a recent survey by the State which disclosed wide-spread violations of laws prohibiting "squatting" on State property and fixing specifications for buildings constructed on land held by the State around the lake.

EXPLANATION

An unusual volume of job printing which taxes the capacity of The Post's equipment necessitates cutting the size of the paper to four pages this week.

It is merely a temporary shrinkage to enable us to maintain our schedule on other work which must be produced at The Post's plant within the next few weeks.

The paper will be restored to its full size next week. A number of new features are being planned for the Summer, not the least of which is a new serial, "Farnell," which will begin next week.

HOT WEATHER ARRIVES EARLY; LIGHTNING HITS LOCAL BARN

Summer doesn't begin until June 22 but you couldn't tell it by the weather this week.

Unusually high temperatures for this time of the year have brought hundreds of families to Harvey's Lake and to summer homes throughout this section weeks ahead of schedule and traffic to and from the lake has been crowded every night this week.

The only relief from the torrid sun came on Tuesday afternoon when a

All lakes in Pennsylvania are State property unless the land surrounding them is owned by one person. Where two or more people own the lake-front property the State claims the body of water as its property.

At Harvey's Lake the State owns twenty-five feet from the low water mark to the highway and twenty-five feet from the center of the road toward the lakefront. In most places this completely eliminates private property, two exceptions being at Sandy Beach and at the Troxel property at Outlet.

Buildings meeting certain requirements will be allowed on the lake front but their owners will have to pay a levy on square footage to the State Department.

Many other buildings which violate the State specifications will have to be changed. Some protrude too far over the surface of the lake, some are too high, and some will be rebuilt on private property which will not be subject to the State's levy.

A number of prominent residents of the lake have protested the wholesale violation of the "anti-squatting" laws for some time, on the grounds that the growing number of buildings along the lake-front detracted from the beauty of the resort.

In addition to this, the State has tentative plans to construct a wide, concrete highway completely around the lake, and it wants motorists on that scenic circle to have a clear view of the lake. Many of the buildings are now so high that they block the sight of the water.

No complete report has been made by the State engineers who made a survey at the lake several weeks ago but it is expected that consideration will be shown in granting an extension of time to owners who will have to change their lake-front buildings.
