

Kingston Township

In the absence of Neil Henry, who was out of town recently, Bob Jackson handled the German Bakery routes here.

Dave Andrews is worried over the condition of his mother, who has been seriously ill.

Mrs. Stanley Mieczkowski of Pioneer avenue entertained her two sisters and their husbands and her father, who is past ninety years of age. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowbe, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Wonszewicz, John Andzelewski and the hostess.

Miss Altheda Holcomb is driving her new Dodge sedan and visits her grandmother on Huntsville street often. The Post has been a favorite paper with her grandmother as long as she can remember.

"Bill" Diltz, who used to work on the Post, has returned from Benton and is residing in the Brace home on Main street, Shavertown, with his bride. Bill has been a printer, painter and general versatile hand at anything and is going to make this township his permanent home.

The holiday spirit shows where people congregate now. Someone says Christmas is no longer a day but a season.

We can't say much about how the census will look for this section in 1940, compared with the last census in 1930, but we do know that it is difficult to find an empty house.

The other day, covering some of our highways which have been beautified by the WPA, we came to Ruggles and beautiful Alderson and then to Ruggles' Hollow and climbed a steep mountain only to be met by Ray Crispell, who sent us back a mile to Clifford Crispell. It seems that the Crispells are building on the Ruggles Mountain, where we were headed by mistake. Before we had gone very far beyond Dallas George Still, who had plenty on the truck, boards, plaster board and coal, at a forty mile an hour travelling speed, dropped off boards at Mrs. Carrie Ryman's farm, where a few carpenters and others were doing some building and general repair work and improve jobs and all in all the places were really wonderful through the cleanliness and lonesomeness. But as we were returning a school bus came along, and, by Jove, if the place did not seem just like any other place, only way out in the country.

Few people have ever seen Laketon or they would not live in the Valley.

Forrester Still is back with the Dutch Mountain Clay Products Co., and makes his home at Mildred, after finishing an engineering job at Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Slocum of Main street, Shavertown, are entertaining Mrs. Slocum's young sister, Miss Carpenter, from up country.

Trucker Updyke of Mt. Greenwood, who recently took upon himself a bride, has purchased a truck and is now in the trucking business, hence Trucker Updyke.

The Cobleigh Brothers are buying new coal trucks and selling some which they had in service.

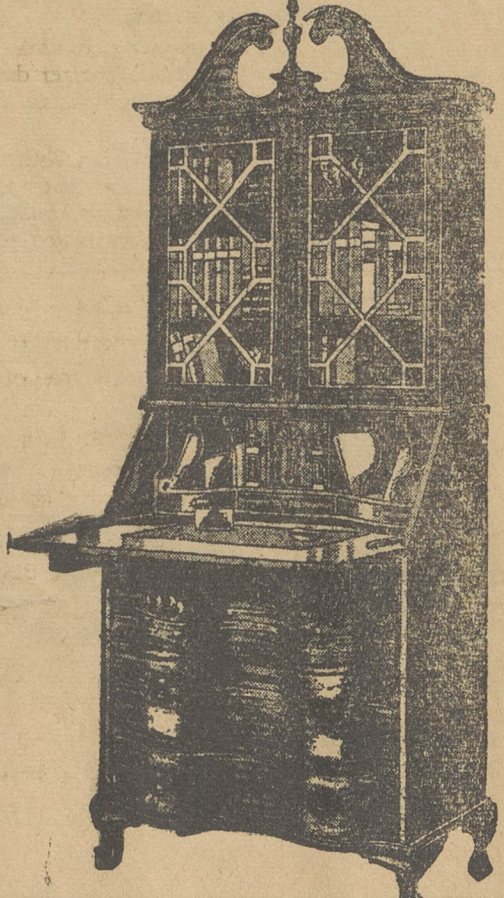

Garageman White has presented the Sea Scouts of Shavertown with 500 cards which he thinks will be needed to hand to housewives who have papers for them.

John Anderson is mourning the loss of his sister, Mrs. Holbrook, who died at her home on Rutter avenue, Kingston. Mrs. Holbrook was also a sister of the late Harry Anderson, Dallas burgess.

Palmer Updyke of Kunkle is driving a truck of Harry Still. The cold snap has brought about a demand for coal.
