KINGSTON TOWNSHIP

Daniel Alex Lawley of Kingston visited relatives in Shavertown last Sunday.

Junior Klump came near to having a sorrowful Christmas. He came to Stanley's on Christmas Eve to make some purchases and when he reached in his pocket the ten dollar bill he had been carrying was gone. He hastened from the store to retrace his steps through the Holcomb farm to Davis Street and his backyard. The day was dying fast, but luck favored the youth, for he found the bill upon a white stone near his yard. He had saved the money from his own allowance.

"Bill" Luksic not only gave us a boost but paid us an honor in his Sunday Independent column. Want to be our secretary, Bill?

Coach Nielson Andrews and wife and Mrs. John B. Hendrickson of Westmoor were visitors at the Lawley's on Christmas.

Everyone who knows Attorney Jurchak is sorrowing with him because of the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Jurchak. Attorney Jurchak is one of the best-liked young lawyers in the county.

The Holcomb Farm is being suggested as the site for an athletic field for the high school if a new school is built adjacent to the present high school.

Charles Conklin of Carverton is building a nice business for the J. W. Yeager Co. of Kingston and is covering all of this territory.

CHECK POULTRY WEIGHT

It is a good practice for poultrymen to check the body weight of their birds at regular intervals. Some put paint on a few birds so that these can be weighed regularly. Others just handle a few of the birds as the eggs are gathered or catch a few birds on the floor, say Penn State poultry specialists.
