

Ira Cooke's Death Ends Long Battle

Was One Of Few Who Could Name All The Streets Of Dallas

Mr. Cooke was one of the few men in Dallas who knew the names of all the streets in the borough and a few years ago he compiled the only existing list of streets. He made blueprint copies which are a valuable aid today in most local business places.

When Harry Anderson died, Governor Pinchot appointed Mr. Cooke justice of the peace. In 1935 Mr. Cooke ran for election successfully and began a four-year term in January, 1936. Aside from his business and official duties, he displayed a keen interest in the progress of this section and was ever ready with constructive ideas.

He was a member of Dr. Henry M. Laing Fire Co., the local units of the Junior Mechanics and the I. O. O. F. and the First M. E. Church.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. from the home, with Rev. Francis Freeman officiating. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Besides Mr. Cooke's mother, Mrs. Charles Cooke, a sister, Mrs. Arthur Clemow of Trucksville, and a brother, Claude, Fernbrook, survive.

Part of the meeting time will be used for the discussion of problems which parents may care to present.

POSTSCRIPTS

"So many men in this world are going nowhere in particular that when one comes along—even though he be amusing and insignificant—who is really (and passionately) going somewhere, what a stir he communicates to a dull world! We catch sparks of electricity from the very friction of his passage."

DEFINITIONS

Dorothy Carter, that perennial contributor, sends in a few Halloween Definitions by a Misogynist:

Ducking for apples: Unlimited opportunity for vengeance.

Costumes: What you will do things in you would not do things out of.

Ghosts: What children dress up like in the soap advertisements to their mother's shame.

Pumpkins: What would be better off in pie.

Masks: What ladies with buck teeth shouldn't take off at midnight.

Seeing True Love in Mirror: Occupation of the conceited.

Signs Of Fraud Found By Brace

Both Parties In Squabble Over Registration List

The November election is my personal opinion," declared Dando.

"After Scalps of WPA Men"

"Despite all the previous statements of Director Hopkins at Washington and Banks Hudson at Harrisburg, local WPA leaders are out after the scalps of every WPA worker who failed to heed the warning and change his registration to Democratic," Dando continued.

He produced statements signed by eighteen men who had been employed on a project at East End Boulevard and who were transferred to another project, 34 miles away, because, according to Mr. Dando, they were wearing Arthur H. James for Governor buttons.

Attorney Dando told The Post of another instance in which registrations were received from an address which is a school building.

It will be several days before registration figures are complete, Chief Clerk Brace said. Minority County Commissioner John A. Riley reported his tabulations show the Democrats are leading by approximately 6,500. His figures are: Republicans, 107,083; Democrats, 113,605.

A year ago several persons were brought to trial charged with false registration but no convictions have been secured to date.

In the section about Dallas Republicans strengthened their lead during the most recent registration period and are estimated to have at least a two to one majority.
