Hazletine, Fred Kiefer, Clyde Lapp, Dan Waters, Phil Cheney, L. M., Lettie Culver—the list is much, "much too long and we can only say that we are truly and deeply grateful. Above all, we owe thanks to HWR who, exposed constantly to our wilful whims, has never once interfered with our editorial liberty, permitting us, year after year, to be guided only by our journalistic conscience. We know that ideal has, more than once, put into this newspaper opinions which he, the publisher, could not approve. We know, too, that we shall probably never again have the freedom of expression which we have had here.

Now this last Post Scripts is finished, or will be as soon as we have tacked on a peculiarly-fitting bit of rhyme. It is Clarence Day's and we found it in Alexander Woolcott's "Second Reader." Farewell, my friends—farewell and hail!

I'm off to seek the Holy Grail. I cannot tell you why. Remember, please, when I am gone "Twas aspiration led me on. Tiddledy-widdly, tootle-oo, All I want is to stay with you, But here I go. Good by.
