In the meantime, the situation is complicated by the big question mark which hangs over the White House on Machell Avenue, where Burgess Smith, waiting for spring and the big sanitary project to clean up Toby's Creek, continues to maintain a deep secrecy concerning his intentions.

Such members of Burgess Smith's Janizariat as Harry Ohlman, John Durbin and Peter D. Clark are convinced that Mr. Smith has already made up his mind to run, but that, shrewd political strategist that he is, he is leading Mr. Lapp on, in the hope that Lapp will exhaust his best arguments early in the campaign, leaving the way open for a flying finish by the Smith forces.

If so, Burgess Smith is underestimating his opponent. Mr. Lapp gave an indication of his strength this week, when he disclosed that he has the indorsement of Councilman Joseph MacVeigh, an invaluable ally. Neither is it a secret that Mr. Lapp—impressed by the way Colonel Carl E. Estes has aided Governor Arthur H. James—has appointed this column to serve as "the mysterious Mr. X" of the Lapp campaign.

We agreed, with the understanding that the affiliation would not prevent us from handling publicity, too, for Burgess Smith, for whom we have a high regard. As we pointed out to Mr. Lapp, the unique plan of having the same publicity man for both candidates has very obvious advantages. It will eliminate entirely the usual anxiety about what the other candidate has up his sleeve, and it should practically sew up all the paid advertising for this newspaper, a factor we can't afford to overlook.

If we hadn't such a high standard of ethics we could tip Burgess Smith off right this minute to Mr. Lapp's campaign strategy. Mr. Lapp is quite impressed by the way Thomas E. Dewey's reputation as a crime buster has catapulted him into the Presidential race and for several weeks Lapp has been looking for some local crime to bust. He thinks now he has stumbled over a likely local scandal and he is preparing to call for an investigation of the awarding of the door prizes at the firemen's play.

Mr. Lapp's suspicion was excited first by the mysterious "Mrs. Murphy of Idetown" who won the ham. "I wouldn't have said anything when I discovered that "Mrs. Murphy" was none other than Joe MacVeigh's wife," says Mr. Lapp, "but when I found that Cal McHose's brother won a basket of groceries I decided to bring the matter to public attention."

Mr. Lapp's scheme seems like a sound one to us. Only one thing worries us. Neither Burgess Smith, Mr. MacVeigh nor Mr. McHose look worried.

FLASH: (Uncensored)—At press time word reached The Post that Burgess Smith had appointed Jack Hislop ambassador-without-portfolio to confer with the supervisors of Dallas, Lehman and Kingston Townships. During his confidential mission, Secretary Hislop will study the
