The Senior Class held an outing at Whirl's End on Monday, leaving the college early in the day and enjoying a program which included hiking, games and exploration of the scenic spot.

BULLETIN!

Mrs. Arthur Culver, The Post's social reporter, had an especially important news item to turn in this week—so very important she was devoting all her time to it and, even at that, had to rely on her husband to get the story to The Post.

"It's a boy!" was the flash Mr. Culver phoned to his wife's associates at The Post Saturday morning and his own delight was scarcely more than that of the staff, which forgot all about the European War in the excitement and wanted to put out an extra.

The new arrival, who will be christened Arthur Lee Culver, weighed eight pounds, nine ounces, the beaming father reported. Lettie, who was doing very nicely, agreed it was her biggest story yet. She will be home from General Hospital in a few days.
