RUBBER IS NOW BEING EMPLOYED TO ARTISTIC END... IN MANY MUSEUMS, CAN BE FOUND THE MOST LIFELIKE FISHES AND SNAKES.

SNAKE!

OFF THE COAST OF CALIFORNIA ARE THE CHANNEL ISLANDS, WHICH ARE THE PEAKS OF MOUNTAINS LONG SUBMERGED.

ALTHOUGH THE SWORDFISH IS A FAIRLY POPULAR FISH, THERE IS MORE MYSTERY SURROUNDING ITS HABITS AND MIGRATIONS THAN IN CASES OF RARER SPECIES OF FISH.

A TIBETAN LAMA MUST, AS PART OF HIS INITIATION RITES, SPEND 3YRS., 3MONTHS, 3DAYS, 3HOURS IN A CAVE, SEEING OR SPEAKING TO NO HUMAN BEING DURING THAT TIME.

OH, I SAY! SORT OF A LAMA, WOT? WHO...ME? NAH! I'M JUST A HOIMIT!

Eph's smile faded. "Ain't it all right, son?" "It definitely ain't," we declared. "And watch your grammar. And your spelling, too. A swell President you'll make. You didn't even spell 'America' right." Eph was indignant. "I don't reckon to be stern, son, but remember it was me and illiterates like me that give you a country to put a name on. There wuz a time when a spellin' book was important only 'cause it made good waddin' for a musket. I don't rec'lect a solitary Master of Arts at Valley Forge."

"WHAT ARE you made up for?" we inquired. Eph brightened. "These is all buryn' clothes," he said. Figured that backwoods 'ongson', as the Frenchies say, wasn't fit for a candidate for the Presidency. So I borrowed these from some of the boys. These is 'Bijah Smithers' pantsalones. He never wore 'em 'til he died. The coat's a mite small. Forget the feller's name that owned it. Said his boy brought it all the way

SHERIFF'S SALE
By virtue of Writ of Fi Fa No. 112, October Term, 1940, from Court of Common Pleas of Luzerne County, Pa., on Friday, September 13, 1940, at 10 A. M., in Court Room No. 2, Court House, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., all the surface of that certain piece of land situate in the City of Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County, Pa., being a rectangular lot 50 feet front on Northerly side of South Main Street by 225 feet deep, being lot 26 on plot of Bennett and Horton recorded in Deed Book 333, page 74; being the same premises conveyed by deed of Charles N. Loveland and wife dated November 2, 1929, recorded in Deed Book 688, page 469, to Harry R. Hazel and Marion B. Hazel, his wife. Improved with three story frame dwelling adapted for three apartments, now known as 851 South Main Street, and with two car garage. Sold as property of aforesaid Hazels. DALLAS C. SHOBERT, Sheriff. from Philadelphia to bury him in. 'Course these fellows all died over a period of time, so the clothes ain't what you'd call representative of any one generation, but we thought it'd make me look a little more dignified durin' the campaign. "Take them back," we advised. "All right," he sighed. "Anyway, I feel better in the other clothes." "Now," we proceeded, "what's this about a press conference, and don't forget that I'm busy." Eph bit off a hunk of plug, labored it thoughtfully for a spell and then stowed it in his cheek. "Wal," he began, "I reckon if Willie and Roosevelt can have press conferences I can. You ask me questions and I'll make statements. This here is now a press conference. Let 'er fly, son."

RESIGNED, WE looked about for inspiration. There was a screamer on a newspaper on the desk. It said "Willkie For Aid To Britain." "What," we asked, "is your attitude on the war?" Eph's jaws moved rhythmically as he pondered the question. "Pussanally, son," he said, at last, "I had a bellful of war in '78." "You're for peace, then, I take it." "Who ain't, son? Did you ever run across a candidate who wasn't?" "Would you fight to save democracy?" Eph grinned. "I fit to get democracy, son, so I suppose I'd fight again. All us Americans like fightin'. Only, like I told you afore, get it out of your noggin that fightin' alone will save democracy. Funny, how everybody's so proud of democracy, now that they hear it's likely to be yanked out from under 'em."

"YOU KNOW, son, democracy has taken a lot of punishment in this country in the last 75 years, right from its own folks. If it wasn't the best way to live, it'd never stood up under some of the dead weight it's been carryin' right here in the U. S. A. I figger most people right now are concerned more with savin' their own bank accounts and houses and political jobs than they are with savin' democracy. Most on 'em, anyway. "Democracy is like a candle, son, D'jever notice how real purty the flame is? At first the candle is straight and white and slim, then after a while it melts crooked and the tallow runs down its side and it gits lumpy and little. But the flame still burns bright and purty. "After a while that old candle melts all away, but somebody comes along with a fine new candle and lights it from the old flame. That's the way it is with democracy. That's the way it is with everything that's right. It never dies. Things change. The candles melt away. But the flame's still there, burnin' bright and clear and brave and fine, real purty like. "The Big Wind from Berlin may make the flame jump and flicker just a mite, but there ain't no human lungs can blow that flame out. But then, you got to be at least 200 years old to know that. You couldn't expect a smart, young feller like Mister Hitler to know about it."

WE LOOKED at Eph with respect. It was quiet. Finally we said, "That may be true, Eph, but don't you think it's time we should be a little scared about the threats against us?" Eph scratched his leathery cheek with a long finger. "Glad you mentioned that, son. There is one guy we got to watch pretty close." "Who's that?" We waited, tensely. Eph's eyes twinkled. "Fu Manchu," he said, and then he disappeared.

But as he was fading away it looked as if he lifted his thumb to the tip of his nose and wiggled his fingers impudently. The last thing to go was his big, wide grin.
