Grove Theatre Brings 'Bachelor Father'

Opening September 2 for a hilarious week at the Grove Theatre is a play which even the New York-Hollywood cast thinks it fun to present.

"Bachelor Father" makes no pretensions to being a serious piece or even a stylish comedy, but it is a delightful entertainment, nevertheless, and turns round a very pleasant bit of invention. Its theme concerns a bachelor getting on in years who decides to collect his offspring about him, for reasons of boredom, and for other reasons hidden in his heart somewhere, perhaps, and quite unknown to himself. There are three of these offspring to be sought; the young family solicitor sets off to bring them in; he gathers up a son in Manchester, a daughter from a prima donna's balcony in Florence, and another from the doorstep of her New York lodging house.

With this beginning, you can imagine the comedy that ensues as the play develops. Originally produced by David Belasco, "Bachelor Father" had a long run in New York City.

Everywhere you go in London there are men in khaki or blue. When Stephen came home on leave and he was walking up the Strand, he had quite a business in hand to salute every Major, Colonel, Captain, etc. He threatened to go back to camp and write a book called "Interrupted Bliss" because Mummie didn't want him coming on her sitting-room carpet in his dirty black Army boots. The blackout is so much shorter now because the days are longer! There are still many benevolent elephants in the sky and I often think what interesting stories they must have to tell of the aeroplanes they have seen and the stars they have interviewed; the way the moon smiles at them and the clouds complain. But how glad and happy the balloons must feel every morning when the sun comes up and says "hello."

You wouldn't know Eros in Piccadilly Circus now. He's covered with board and has a sandbag top-hat. The boards are covered with posters about the Savings Campaign: Lend to Defend the Right to Be Free. One picture shows a long line of men having a tug-of-war with a thick rope that turns into a flag at the end.

The Commons and Gardens and Parks have been dug up in many places for allotments, and the holders have been busy all spring digging for victory, fertilizing, planting seeds. Now they are beginning to get many vegetables from them. This afternoon, when we passed a barracks, it was good to see the lorries ready and waiting. Everyone seems to be prepared for anything and we are grateful. I was cycling along a road last week and as I was going at a decent speed felt almost dizzy, for all the trees along each side had white combinations on. Lamp-posts, fences, gates and walls have all been copying Belisha Beacons. I even saw a black dog walking serenely down the High Street with a whitened nose and tip of tail!

This afternoon I went to the Empire Youth Service at Westminster Abbey. It was relayed to the British Empire and to all Allied and foreign countries. Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, Boys Brigade, Life Saving Guard, and ever so many other youth organizations were represented. It was all very stirring. I sat in Poet's Corner. The walls and ceilings have been cleaned and the gold in the ceiling sparkled like stars.

Have you seen the movie, "For Freedom"? It is all about the Battle of the River Plate, the Graf Spee and Almark. We saw the actual officers and men of our British ships, while Will Fyfe and others played fictional parts. It was a proper Allies picture. It also shows the various treaties that the Nazi Government have made and broken. I do wish Hitler would comb his hair properly. It would please me very much.

Mummie went up to Bussards, you know the cake shop in Oxford Street, and what do you think was in the window? A wedding cake with a huge sugar cannon mounted on a gun carriage for decoration! Fancy postage rates going up! If I wanted to send four letters, it used to cost me sixpence, now it costs tenpence. We don't mind though when we realize why it is and what we have to do it for.

Two air raid wardens came to school this week and inspected our gas masks. They said "Gas" and we had to take a deep breath and put our respirators on as quickly as possible. It's very inconvenient when you giggle inside your mask, and it makes a very funny noise. We have to take the masks to every lesson. We are starting up our Girl Guides work again. I am in Kingfisher Patrol and Princess Elizabeth is in Kingfisher, too.

Every Sunday evening at the 9 o'clock news, after the statement "This is the B. B. C. Home Service," the announcer says, "Ladies and Gentlemen, the Allies!" Then the national anthems of the Allies are played. There are ever so many of them, Polish, Norwegian, Dutch, French, and more are added all the time. I would like to hear "The Star Spangled Banner" soon. It takes ten minutes to play all the anthems through and I join in with them so I shall learn them quickly. First of all, when I heard the anthems of the Allies, I was inclined to feel that they were much more beautiful and musical than ours. After they have all been played there comes a rumble of drums and then ours. I love it. It sounds so great and grand and noble.

Oh, I'm so glad that Queen Wilhelmina and King Haakon and ever so many others have come to England. Isn't it good to know that our country can be trusted like that? I'm glad I'm British, and proud, too.

Your loving niece,
Susan

Avast There Matey—Hist To Ransom

Chicago, Aug. 29—Ransom Sherman, Club Matinee pilot, always on the qui vive to stimulate the world of culture and like that, is experimenting in a new line of verse which he calls "tone poems for the violin." They're to be read in a deep, throaty baritone with fiddle accompaniment. Sherman's initial opus, introduced to a slaphappy world last Saturday, follows:

TETHERED TERMITES

Ah, that to all, of which—sky rock-ets?
Ahhhh—worms seeking apples at dusk.
Worms finding apples at dusk.
Wormy apples we buy—at dusk.

But what of telephone poles—so low?
So high? Medium.
Then off to billowy pavements.
Alas!
Goody!
Blow wind—shhhhh!

Purple pumpkins—avast there, matey.
Termites—termites.
Hi, Zanibar!
Pretty, ain't it?

Sweet Valley Band Meets On Tuesdays

The newly organized band at Sweet Valley under the direction of Professor David Anstett meets every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church Hall. The attendance is growing each night. Any one wishing to play is welcome. Tentative plans for a concert to be given in the near future are being discussed.

Bloomsburg Fair Plans 86th Year

Annual Exposition Will Open On September 28

Each of the entrances has been made beautiful with modern brick structures. The automobile entrance is striking and the brick ornamented gate is a fitting background for beautiful landscaping. There are new brick buildings at Leonard and Fifth street entrances, the interior of each handsomely finished in marble and mahogany. A large, adequate ticket office has been erected on the east side of the grandstand.

With entries in all fields coming in at a rate never before experienced, the 1940 fair seems destined to set a new high in educational values and entertainment features. There will be a gala night show each evening, starting Monday, in addition to the finest in vaudeville which will also be presented during the racing programs of the afternoon. A four-day harness meeting will start Tuesday, September 24, with automobile races on Saturday. Thrill day programs will be presented Tuesday and Friday of fair week in addition to the horse racing.

We see where Samuel Goldwyn and the other movie producers are setting up a howl about the double features ruining the industry. What kind of a business is it that is ruined if its market is doubled? Wish we could be ruined that way.

Calendar Of Events At St. Paul's Church

The regular schedule of services will be resumed at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Shavertown, on Sunday, September 1. Sunday school will be held at 9:45, followed by morning service at 11. An appropriate Labor Day sermon, "The Message of the Church to Labor and Capital" will be delivered by the pastor.

Evening services will be resumed on Sunday, September 8. The time of this service has been set back 15 minutes, and will be held at 7:45 instead of 7:30 as in previous years.

Church meetings of the week are as follows: Wednesday, 1, Ladies' Auxiliary will meet in the church basement. Young People's Choir will meet on Thursday at 7:30. The Senior Choir will meet Friday at 8.

Reformed Racketeer Talks

Mickey Walsh, famed Irish evangelist, will conduct services at Noxen Tabernacle starting Tuesday night, September 3, and continuing until Sunday, September 8. Services are at 7:30. Rev. Mr. Walsh is a "reformed racketeer" and highlights his series of sermons with accounts from his own life. His conversion which, in his own words, was a "Miracle of God's Grace."

We see by the papers that an automobile in Chicago is being driven on synthetic rubber tires. Next thing you know we'll have synthetic cows, synthetic churches, synthetic politicians (a good thing, that). Maybe one of those highly touted German scientists can invent an "ersatz" war for Mr. A. Hitler.

Keller's Flowers Win 25 Ribbons

Other Local Exhibitors Score At Alderson Show

Loren Keller's waxy-pink Picardy gladioli, blooming on a shoulder-high stem, received the special award as the outstanding entry in the first annual flower show of the Alderson Ladies' Aid Society last Thursday.

Mr. Keller, who has 3,000 glads growing in his garden near the main road at Idetown, won 25 ribbons, including nine firsts, nine seconds and seven thirds. Besides his glads, he entered zinnias, asters and rosebuds.

About 500 persons attended the show and inspected the 400 lovely entries. A number of local persons were among the prominent winners, including Mrs. George S. Sawyer, Ray Shiber, Frank Jackson, Mrs. Zel Garinger, Harry Trebilcock, Mrs. John Dersheimer, and Mrs. Harvey Kitchen.

The Alderson Girl Scouts deserve special mention for their wildflower display, which covered a space 16 by 8 feet.

Mrs. David Morgan was general chairman. Judges were Herbert H. Hill, William Ambrose, Charles Quickell, Gerald Snyder and Mrs. Stanley Freeman.

Harford Fair Opens
