

SORDONI AMONG SPONSORS OF WINTER SPORTS PROJECT

A 25-year-old dream—realization of which would make Montrose a winter sports center and boom business in the dull seasons—gave rich promise of coming true this week.

Three Binghamton men, Attorney Joseph Berry, Harry L. Johnson, Jr., and Percy Smith, are sponsoring plans which call for installation of a modern ski tow near Montrose in the next few weeks. Mr. Berry is consultant on winter sports to the New York State Parks Commission, while both Mr. Johnson, a nephew of George H. Johnson, creator of the Endicott-Johnson Corporation, and Mr. Smith have had wide experience in the winter sports field.

THREE SLOPES SELECTED

During a visit to Montrose several weeks ago, Mr. Berry selected three slopes, all with Northeastern exposure (where the snow lasts longest) near Montrose.

With former State Senator A. J. Sordoni, owner of Montrose Inn, actively interested in the project, it may develop that two tows will be erected. Mr. Sordoni and M. E. Morrison, general manager of the Sterling Hotel System, of which Montrose Inn is a part, have conferred with the Binghamton men and stand ready to boost the project "to the hilt". Mr. Sordoni has offered to provide a gasoline engine and wench, erect poles for lighting and to aid the project materially in several other ways.

It also is expected that ski trails will be established in this area "before the snow flies—and stays". Other groups are reported planning to develop skating facilities either at Lake Montrose or at School Park, between Jackson and Union streets.

RAILROADS INTERESTED

The Binghamton sponsors of the ski tow project are confident arrangements can be made with the Lackawanna Railroad to send excursion trains to Montrose. Similar arrangements also may be made with the Lehigh Valley Railroad and the Reading Company, whose trains leave Philadelphia and connect with the Lehigh Valley at Bethlehem.

Winter sports enthusiasts are certain to be attracted from Binghamton, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre and other towns and cities in the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valleys.

That Montrose will experience a business boom as a result of the winter sports movement seems assured. Montrose Inn, which will provide a most attractive hostelry for the visitors, is sure to derive benefits, as are other inns, tourist homes, restaurants, service stations and stores.

STATE TREASURER OF PENNSYLVANIA

G. HAROLD WAGNER OF WILKES-BARRE

HERE'S WHAT OTHERS SAY

WARREN BRICKETS, Auditor General of Pennsylvania:

Wagner has abolished antiquated methods of appraising and collecting inheritance taxes and has installed modern business practices in this department. Greater service has been given to the public; appraisements have been more equitable; greater revenues have come to the State. His courteous manner has made many friends for the Department.

M. J. HARTNETT, Register of Wills, Cambria County:

Harold Wagner spent several days in this office helping close out old and stubborn estates. His invaluable assistance resulted in clearing off the docket's 25 delinquent estates representing the collection of $6,061.84 in inheritance taxes.

CHARLES C. EASTON, Esq., Erie—(one of the oldest members of the Erie County Bar):

We have found Mr. Wagner a very capable, agreeable and efficient gentleman . . . most helpful in adjusting appraisement and inheritance tax matters . . . I believe it is the unanimous sentiment of the Bar that he should be returned to his duties as special appraiser for Erie and adjoining counties.

ROBERT E. JENKINS, Register of Wills, Schuylkill County (1939):

. . . keep Wagner here indefinitely. This county is in great need of his services . . . we greatly appreciate the cooperation given us in inheritance tax matters and are taking the liberty to request that you continue this aid as long as possible by returning Mr. Wagner to this county.

C. E. LOFER, Register of Wills, Warren County:

G. Harold Wagner has rendered very valuable assistance in straightening out office procedure . . . several thousands of dollars of taxes will be collected.

CARLTON V. KING, Register of Wills, Erie County (1938):

Mr. Wagner has set up a procedure in the Inheritance Tax Office whereby for the first time, our inheritance tax docket is up-to-date. . . attorneys and the public can now obtain information without confusion or delay.

WINFIELD W. CRAWFORD, Register of Wills, Delaware Co.:

I was disappointed to learn that Mr. Wagner has been assigned to another county . . . I feel confident if you will re-assign him as promptly as possible the system inaugurated will be of substantial and lasting benefit.

HORACE G. MILLER, Register of Wills, Jefferson County, (1939):

Thank you for your favorable consideration of our request for a special appraiser in the Gilbert McGregor Estate. It is a pleasure to me to find a State official who believes in efficiency and competency of employees before politics as we, who have had business with the Auditor General's office have found out.

THE OFFICE OF STATE TREASURER REQUIRES ABILITY

Your State Treasury disbursed over 671 Million Dollars the past fiscal year.
