ALAN KISTLER SETS OUT FOR FORT SILL, OKLAHOMA FOR YEAR OF TRAINING

The Post will expect to have first hand news from Oklahoma for the coming year, for our own Alan Kistler was headed for Fort Sill when we received a card from him this week: "Was in Camp Meade, Maryland, for four days. How did you make out on Thursday evening—I was thinking about you. Right now I'm on a sleeper bound for Fort Sill, Oklahoma. This will be my address for a year. If you can, will you send me The Post? This will give me some news of the home town. I didn't expect to go so far from home, but will have to make the best of it."

Alan, who has been engaged as printer at The Post for the past four years, left two weeks ago for a year of selective service. We thought of him on Thursday night too (our publication night)—and we missed him.
