Three Attorneys May Be Disbarred

Are From Wilkes-Barre, Nanticoke And Duryea

In star-chamber sessions of the bar associations of Luzerne County and Pennsylvania it is officially known that three lawyers of previous high standing are being tried on charges that may result in their disbarment. Of the three, according to declarations of witnesses, only one has a chance to escape the penalty of loss of the State license to practice law.

One of the lawyers is from Duryea, the second is from Wilkes-Barre, the third is from Nanticoke. Hearings in one of the cases have extended over a period of two years; but the others are comparatively new. It is in the long-delayed de cision, that of the Wilkes-Barre attorney, that a chance is seen of survival against the charges of the bar associations.

But, for the other two, the man from Duryea and the man from Nanticoke, the expectation is that the Board of Governance in control of lawyers' rights will hand down disbarments. That is equivalent to deprivation of the lawyer's right to earn a living. Extenuating circumstances in the Wilkes-Barre lawyer's case cover what may be called a mistake of judgment; but in the cases from Duryea and Nanticoke (Central Press) the plain implications are that the Duryea lawyer became involved in criminal charges and the Nanticoke man had his criminal charges extended as far as alleged embezzle-

Because several judges have gone to jail, and because many lawyers lately have been disbarred, there has been effort in the three Luzerne
