Canned Shrimp Make Canny Casserole!

Deviled shrimp, served in individual clam shell dishes or in one congealed casserole, is one dish for which you won't have to "shell out" very much! Canned shrimp are the answer to both economy and good eating, and two cans of shrimp, all ready to use without tedious cooking, shelling or cleaning, will serve six generously, and the low cost will surprise you. So will the simplicity of this recipe:

Deviled Shrimp

2 cups canned shrimp (2 No. 1 cans)
4 tablespoons butter
Dash cayenne pepper
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard.
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter
Shred shrimp, saving two or three whole shrimp to garnish each serving. Melt butter, blend in flour, salt, mustard and cayenne pepper. Add milk, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Add parsley, lemon juice, and shrimp. Place in individual baking dishes or casseroles. Sprinkle with bread crumbs which have been mixed with the melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until the crumbs are brown. Makes 6 servings.

Vivid Spring Hats Are Aid To Courage And Morale

Color Is Keynote Of Newest Hats Women Wage War On Drabness

Hats on—for keeping heads high and steps firm!

What is it about a new hat that bolsters morale and keeps courage high? Often it's the color, or combination of colors, complementing or contrasting with face and eye coloring, which cause other eyes to admire the woman in the becoming hat.

Color is the keynote of the new spring hats. "Color for courage" is the theme. To avoid drabness of looks and feelings, women will wear lovely, colorful hats, and a costume without a hat will not be considered complete.

Psychological Effect

The psychological effect of a becoming hat upon a woman's spirit is more than imagination. It's a woman's hat which comes closest to her face, and therefore is most closely associated with her personality. A worn-out faded hat bespeaks a drab personality, whereas a bright, new hat bespeaks courage and vividness of personality. Stringy, wind-torn hair and no hat, tells the story of careless grooming and lack of personal pride, whereas hair carefully held in place by a flattering hat tells the story of careful grooming and a well-ordered manner of living.

Influences Others

Not only does a pretty new hat have a salutary effect upon the wearer—it also has a tonic influence upon those around her. It's like looking at a beautiful painting, to gaze upon a woman smartly groomed and wearing a hat which frames her face and brings out the color of her complexion or her eyes.

Now that "heads high and steps firm" is the national watchword, it behooves the women of the country to keep up their appearance—not to let down and be careless about grooming or looks. More than ever, they must dress with pride—not lavishly, but with careful attention to details. Wearing becoming hats is one way to keep the well-groomed look.

Deb Likes Hats

Even the prettiest girl is prettier when she wears a lovely hat. Beautiful Glamour Debutante Betty Gordon, one of the busiest of the New York Debs, with war work and "dates" taking up most of her time, says she loves hats. The blue-bonnet blue of this adorable bonnet by Sally Victor, matches the blue of Betty's eyes.
