Chicken Pie Supper Still Is Traditional as Harvest Fete

WHEN the crops are in and the frost lies lightly on the stubble the harvest supper appears again on the American scene. Though the menu for this hearty feast may change in different parts of the country, nearly always it features that glorious, soul-satisfying dish—crisp, golden-crust chicken pie. For a new version with a nut-like taste use bran in the crust according to the directions that follow:

All-Bran Chicken Pie
1 1/2-5 pound chicken 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour 2 cups chicken stock
4 tablespoons butter or chicken fat 1 recipe All-Bran Biscuits

Cut chicken in pieces; place in kettle in about 1 quart of salted water, cover tightly and simmer until tender (1 1/2-3 hours). Remove meat from bones in as large pieces as possible; arrange in 2-quart casserole. Melt butter or fat, stir in flour and seasonings, and when well blended, add chicken stock slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. Add more salt to sauce if necessary. Pour over chicken in casserole. Cover with All-Bran Biscuits and bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) about 20 minutes—or until biscuits are done. Yield: 6 servings.

All-Bran Biscuits
1/2 cup All-Bran 3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 cup milk 1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups flour 1/2 cup shortening

Soak All-Bran in milk. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse crumble. Add soaked All-Bran; stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn onto floured board, knead lightly a few seconds; roll or pat to 1/2-inch thickness and cut with floured cutter. Yield: 12 biscuits (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

and Mrs. William Baker of Lehman avenue.

Private Allen G. Kittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kittle of Sweet Valley, is still at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, but is now in Station Camp, Headquarters Detachment.

Maybe your address is wrong! Send in your correct address on a postcard to be sure it's right.
