of the present shortage is due to transportation difficulties-railroads burdened with war shipments; Great Lakes frozen over and other causes. Shipments from nearby mills in Waverly, N. Y. require twice as long as they did in normal times while shipments from Buffalo have been extended from a normal three days to ten days and two weeks.

The other reasons for the shortage Mr. Devens attributed to diversion of soya bean products to industrial uses and a lack of understanding on the part of the government that production of food is just as vital closes. to the war as the production of arms and ammunition. "The farmer," he said discouragingly, "is being asked to produce more than ever without enough farm help, without being able to obtain tools and without any real appreciation of his problems on the part of the government. The whole program is confused. The Government has said farm labor should receive $200 a self month- that's way above what any farmer can pay-but to cap it off growers raise their crops without contracts and have no guarantee that their crop will be lifted when it matures, while farmers who grow for canning purposes have definite contracts and are assured a market for everything they raise.

The County Agent said there are a dozen reasons why everybody in the Dallas area should be interested in the opportunity presented by the Chef Boy-ar-dee people. Not the least of these is the patriotic appeal to grow tomatoes for the armed forces; the necessity of most growers to have a definite market for a good cash crop, and the future possibilities for the establishment of a canning plant in this section of Luzerne County. He also emphasized the uncertainty of transportation for green-wrapped tomatoes used almost exclusively by the civilian market.

If farmers do decide to grow canning tomatoes, Mr. Hutchison believes the labor problem involved in the harvest can be satisfactorily solved locally.

Mr. J. H. Keiser, production manager of the Chef Boy-ar-dee company, and other officials will be present at the January 15th meeting that he saw snow there during the and will discuss the contract price to be offered growers this year. All farmers are urged to attend.
