First, go or write to the nearest Navy Recruiting Station or Office of Naval Officer Procurement for application blanks. Give the information required, and return papers to office of origin.

If your application papers are satisfactory, you'll receive free transportation to the nearest Office of Naval Officer Procurement. There you'll be interviewed and arrange to take the aptitude test.

Then comes a physical check-up by Navy doctors. Requirements are thorough but not too difficult. Any young woman in sound health should be able to pass the examination with flying colors.

It's a thrilling moment when you raise your right hand and are "sworn in". From then on, you're in the service of Uncle Sam, ready to do a man-size job for your country!

Off for training school! The Navy takes care of all expenses. Meals in the dining car. A pullman berth for overnight travel. And you'll find comfortable quarters ready for you when you arrive.

Yes, it's really you! You'll feel proud—and rightly so—when you first see yourself in trim Navy blues. Complete outfit—$200 worth of clothing—is furnished you free as an enlisted woman.

Training schools are located at some of the country's finest colleges. Typing, radio operation, communications, mechanics are only some of the skills you may acquire.

And now—a full fledged member of the service—you go on active duty at one of the big Naval bases. You'll be in the thick of all that's exciting and important in America at war.
