Missionary From China To Speak At Carverton

Dr. Hyla Watters, M. D., Missionary Physician at the General Hospital in China, spoke at Carverton Methodist Church Tuesday evening.

Dr. Watters was serving at the hospital in December, 1941, while the annual conference of that section of China was meeting on the hospital grounds. When war was declared, the Japs interned the whole group on the grounds. Since she was caring for another missionary, critically ill at the time, Dr. Watters did not return on the first Crispell. Last December, however, aboard the second, she arrived in the States.

Last Rites Held At Meeker Home For Shipbuilder

Karl Rebnack Dies On Farm After Being Ill Only Five Months

Karl Rebnack, 41-year-old Meeker shipbuilder, was buried Monday afternoon with services held at the home. Mr. Rebnack became ill five months ago while working at Federal Shipbuilding yards in Kearney, N. J. He died Saturday morning at his home.

Born in Indianapolis, Indiana, he was the son of Marie Disque Rebnack and the late Jacob Rebnack. While young Karl was attending school, his family moved to Toronto, Canada, where his father was superintendent of Dominion Bridge Co., a Canadian iron works. When Karl became of age, he entered Dominion Bridge Co., and learned the iron worker's trade from his father.

Twenty years ago, the elder Mr. Rebnack bought the farm in Meeker, and his wife and children made their home there while he continued work in Toronto. It was there that Karl met his wife, Wilhelmina Walters, daughter of Mrs. Ann Walters of Lehman Township, and that their one son, Albert, now twelve and a student at Laketon School, was born.

Anything of a mechanical nature always fascinated Mr. Rebnack, and he was always patching up some damaged electrical equipment or building little knick-knacks for around the home. He had started a stamp collection shortly before his death, but his fondest hobby was making little rings for the neighborhood children.

Besides his wife and son, Mr. Rebnack leaves his mother, Mrs. Marie Rebnack of Meeker, and two brothers, Albert of Kingston and John of Meeker.

Rev. David A. Mengus of Kingston Lutheran Church officiated at the services, assisted by Rev. Joseph Fiske of Meeker. Casket bearers were friends of Mr. Rebnack, John Hildebrand, Arthur Hoover, Walter Harris, George Weintz, Fred Winters, and Kenneth King. Women's Sunday School Class of Meeker Church carried the many floral tributes. Interment was in Fern Knoll Burial Park.

PTA Embarks On Dynamic Program

gram of cultural programs that will open the door to the entire public for school and community betterment. Such a program has been in successful operation in West Pittston for a number of years and annually attracts nationally known speakers and artists to that community. Mr. Joseph suggested that Dallas pattern its program somewhat after that used in West Pittston.

"We can have just such outstanding programs here", Mr. Joseph said, "if enough interested, intelligent citizens will support it. Under this new plan the entire series of PTA nights will be open to any one from Dallas, the Back Mountain Region or elsewhere on the payment of a nominal fee. The more people who support it the less it will cost and the better talent we can obtain. Such a program depends upon community loyalty and wide support for its success."

At the conclusion of Mr. Joseph's remarks, Ralph Rood was appointed chairman of a committee to make a door-to-door solicitation throughout Dallas and vicinity. A goal of $300 was set temporarily but it is hoped that the funds subscribed will approximate $500 and $1,000. During the course of the meeting
