REGROUPING CREATES STARTLING RESULTS

WANT a new, friendly room at little cost? Regrouping seldom costs much money, and transforms an old tired-looking room into a bright, cheery arrangement. Dorothy Draper, in the October issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine, shows you the effects of regrouping in typical rooms. In a before and after series, she shows what can be done with a little careful planning. The picture above gives you an idea of such a change.

Final Tribute Paid C. J. Brown

Services Held At Home And At Church Sunday

With many friends attending, the funeral of Clinton J. Brown was held Sunday afternoon with prayer at his home in Lehman and services at the Lehman Church in charge of Rev. Frank K. Abbott.

Although his family was small, the floral tributes and callers expressed a feeling of respect and affection not only among the older neighbors but among the younger ones as well. His entire life was spent in Lehman, and he was known as "Pop" to a lot of the younger folks.

Flowers were carried by the faculty of Lehman School where Mr. Brown was on the board for many years. Pall bearers were near neighbors: George Rice, Alfred Rice, Randolph Wright, Arthur Ehret, Raymond Searfoss and Burt Sutton. Burial was in Lehman Cemetery.
