

Shirley Martin Struck By Car

Was Going To Church With Younger Sister

Shirley Martin, 13 year old seventh grader at Dallas Township School, was struck by an automobile Sunday morning on her way to church and received severe lacerations of the legs, right arm, and brush burns of the body. Shirley crossed the road a short distance from her home to accept a ride offered by Jason Kunkle. An automobile, driven by A. C. Garry of Kingston, passed the Kunkle truck, and Shirley, not noticing the car walked right in front of it.

She was hit by the bumper and thrown over the right fender onto the road, luckily not under the wheels. Stunned, she was picked up by her father, and a neighbor, Llewellyn Williams, and rushed to Dr. Malcolm Borthwick. After examination, she was taken to Nesbitt Hospital, and remained there a few days.

Her sister, Nancy, 9 years old, whom Shirley was leading by the hand, was badly frightened, but miraculously escaped injury.

Keats Poad Died Saving Others

out. They swam for thirty-two hours, one of them giving up in sight of shore. The other told us what it had been like inside there when those bullets came smashing through that packed crowd, and a few seconds later when those dying and wounded were all struggling not to drown as the water came in.

"That day the Japs got . . . the nine Dutch flying boats they caught out in the harbor. About forty to fifty were killed on them, mostly women and children.

"I saw one Dutchman swim ashore dragging his wife by the hair. The whole lower half of her face had been blown away and she was dead. I saw another woman standing on the wing of one of the planes which was burning. She had a child in her arms, and was ready to jump and swim ashore, when a cannon shot hit her in the back and broke her in halves. They both fell forward in the water, but the arms on the top half which held the child never let go of it."

Lieut. Poad's citation for the Distinguished Flying Cross and the accompanying correspondence forwarded to his parents by Col. Robert C. Jones of the Air Corps corroborates the circumstances surrounding his last flight.

Posthumous Citation

First Lieutenant Keats Poad, O-421413, (then Second Lieutenant), Air Corps, United States Army. For extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flights from January to March 1942. As Navigator of a B-24 type aircraft, Lieutenant Poad exhibited remarkable technical skill and versatility on a special mission from Washington, D. C., to Cairo, Egypt, and thence to Australia via India and Java to engage in the evacuation by air of women and children besieged on the island of Java. Despite hazardous flying conditions and the lack of radio contact, the evacuation was accomplished by a series of flights in the face of enemy interference. On the final flight, the aircraft departed with thirty women and children and was attacked by three enemy fighter planes. The bomb bay was hit by machine gun bursts, setting fire to the gas tank, and causing the inadequately armed airplane to crash into the sea. Only one person aboard survived.

Telephone Man Buried Monday

Heart Attack Fatal To Walter Besteder

Walter J. Besteder, 50 a native of Center Moreland was laid to rest, Monday June 5 at 2:30. Services were held at the home with Rev. Thomas Kline officiating; burial was in the Marsh Cemetery.

Mr. Besteder had been postmaster at Centermoreland for the past year and served his community and surrounding ones for the past twelve years as telephone operator.

His death came suddenly Friday night at eleven as he was returning with his son Floyd from Tunkhannock where they had driven to visit a physician after Mr. Besteder had had an attack of "indigestion" earlier in the evening. The physician had not been alarmed at his condition, but had given him a hypodermic and had prescribed other medicine in case of another attack. As they reached the Webb place about two miles from Centermoreland on their return, Mr. Besteder felt another attack and attempted to lower the car window to obtain more air. He died instantly.

Mr. Besteder was one of the best known men in the Centermoreland area both through his connections with the telephone company and as president of the school board where he served three terms. For a number of years he handled the Centermoreland switch board from 5:30 in the evening until 12 noon. For about ten years prior to his telephone work, he was employed by Wilkes-Barre traction company and at one time was on the Wilkes-Barre-Harvey's Lake run. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ruby Schoonover; four sons, Floyd, of Vernon; Carey, U. S. Navy; Kenneth, Harrisburg; and Karl, Centermoreland; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Besteder; and a sister, Mrs. Draper Schoonover, Centermoreland; a brother, Clarence, U. S. Army; and six grandchildren.

Pallbearers were, Alfred Kuzma, Victor Keithline, Kenneth Harding, William Storey, Wayne Weaver, and Farrington Hunter. Flowers Carriers were nieces of the family.

Note of Thanks

Mrs. Ruby Besteder and family wish to thank all those who granted their sympathy and services in time of their bereavement.

What Is Legal Liability?

Common Law imposes on everyone the responsibility of proper care for the safety of the public. The failure to do what a reasonable person would ordinarily have done under the circumstances is generally known as "Negligence," which is the basis of any legal liability claim for damages. Just what constitutes negligence in any particular set of circumstances is a question of fact to be determined by a jury.

Liability Insurance is a necessity for everyone. Serious financial loss and possibly bankruptcy may be avoided by adequate protection. For further information, call
