FOR WINTER NIGHTS
The new short tommeocoats for sleeping are going to be just as popular as they were this summer, according to the experts. Marilyn Day, singer on NBC's "The Dunninger Show," wears one in cozy flannel in small blue and white checks. It is man-tailored, low-priced and designed by Harry Berger.

THE RIGHT NUMBER—The pajama-top style that's sweeping the country has a name all its own in this new version worn by Marilyn Day, songstress on NBC's "Dunninger Show." Called "tommeocoat," it's washable white rayon trimmed with red and white bubble dot print. Comfortable for sleeping and nice and low in price. Harry Berger is the clever designer.

HAWAIIAN PRINT
Whether Paris comes back or not America still has a lot of its own resources for style inspiration. Betty Jane Rhodes, of NBC's "Meet Me at Parky's" program, wears a glamorous new dinner suit in a colorful Hawaiian print, including green, blue, orange and red on off-white, with a halo of flowers in her hair.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO HAVE SUNDAY DINNER?

During the War it was quite true that the best place to eat was at home. But, the War is over and now you can give Mother the "day off" from cooking and washing dishes . . . and at the same time give her and the rest of the family a real treat by having dinner at Lakewood Club.

Since November 1st, Lakewood Club has been under new management. If you want a delicious pre-war meal, seasoned to perfection by "Bernie" our famous chef, drive up this Sunday.

SUNDAY DINNER—$1.50 Served from 1 to 6 P.M.
Everyone Welcome
