

Local Men Hunt In South Dakota

Bag Limit Of Birds After Trip By Plane

David Jenkins, Davenport street; Grant Alt, Fernbrook, and Rowland Price Kingston, returned Sunday from a week's duck and pheasant hunting trip in South Dakota.

The trio left Wyoming Valley Airport a week ago Sunday morning in Mr. Jenkins' Stinson Voyageur and flew to Tracy, Minn., where they landed at 4:30 p.m. for the night. They continued their fight on Monday to Aberdeen, S.D., where they landed at 10:30 a.m.

Most of Monday was spent in obtaining hunting licenses and making final arrangements for accommodations at a farmer's home about thirty miles from Aberdeen so that they would be ready for the opening of the South Dakota season early Tuesday morning.

"I wish everybody who loves hunting could have been with us," said Dave, "the prairie, flat for miles in all directions, was filled with birds. We couldn't shoot as fast as they went up and the skies were black with ducks."

"Grant got twenty-five pheasants, the limit, and eight ducks. Rowland got twenty-five pheasants and six ducks and I got twenty-five pheasants and six ducks."

"It was a great trip. We'd heard so much about the good hunting in South Dakota and we'd talked so much about it, that the first thing we knew we'd made up our minds to go."

While there the local men met two hunters from New Jersey who had made the trip out by automobile in three and one-half days of continuous driving.

Mr. Jenkins and his party started their return trip on Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. They spent Sunday night in Chicago, and ended the final leg of their journey at Wyoming Valley Airport at one o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Druggists' Advertising Receives Commendation

Sheldon Evans, Shavertown druggist, has returned from Atlantic City where he attended the Eastern States Convention of more than 500 Retail druggists.

Mr. Evans' newspaper advertising program received commendation as being outstanding among community drug stores of the country.

On his return from the convention Mr. Evans visited and made a tour of inspection through the great Breyer's Ice Cream plant in Philadelphia.

There he learned that his store is one of the top ranking outlets in gallonage for this famous ice cream.

Apple Cider Time In Kingston Township

Thursday night, October 10th, during the school recess for teachers' institute, Kingston Township high school students held their annual cider parties.

The Senior Class, chaperoned by Miss Esther J. Saxe, went to White's Park where the big attraction was boating.

The Junior Class, chaperoned by Harold E. Seiple, Walter Mohr and Miss Mary Whitby, went to Stegmaier's Farm where they put on a "Truth and Consequences" program.

The Sophomore Class, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Mainwaring and Mr. and Mrs. Verus Weaver, had their party at Norris Glen Park.

It was a wondrous night. The cider and hot-dogs were just right. The costumes were blue jeans and checkered shirts for girls and boys alike. Each boy and girl believes that he or she had a jollier time than their grandparents did at cider parties in the "old days."

Township Veterans Enjoy Free Recreation

Kingston Township Veterans club is now equipped to furnish amusement free of charge to members, associate members and their friends, unless they get hungry or thirsty.

Club rooms are now open every night of the week and with the new furnishings provide a fine place for a quiet good time.

Costs of running the club are paid out of returns from the canteen.

Hartman Loses Valuable Dog

Four Dalmation Pups Are Artificially Fed

Ed Hartman, well-known local sportsman and horseman, has lost his fine Dalmation dog, Miss Universe, more familiarly known as Lady among the men and youngsters at Dwight Fisher's stables where she made her home and was rearing a litter of five four-week old puppies.

Lady was a good mother and cheerful companion. The evening before her death she romped about the stalls until 10 o'clock with her human companions and pups.

Next morning when stablemen came in to feed the horses and Lady's family, they found her lying dead in a box stall surrounded by whining puppies who were crawling all over her in search of their breakfast. She was the victim of rat poison placed in the barn by a professional exterminator.

Fortunately her puppies were accustomed to prepared dog food with which their diet had been supplemented. With the extra help of a nursing bottle and the assistance of neighborhood children who looked after the lonely orphans during the day, Ed has been able to raise four beautiful pups, two of which have been sold.

Their sire was Champion Four-hand Blackberry and their mother was a daughter of Champion Reigate Bold Venture. All of which means nothing to the neighborhood kids who still think that orphan puppies are the best dogs in the world.

Bank Receives Deposit Boxes

Shipment On Order For Almost Two Years

Two hundred and fifty safe deposit boxes, on order for almost two years, have been received and installed by First National Bank.

Shortly after their arrival here from a plant in Ohio, a representative of the Marvin Safe Manufacturing company came on from New York City and spent three days installing them.

Included in the two tons of equipment are safe deposit boxes, lockers and compartments, the latter especially adaptable for the storage of silverware, heirlooms and other bulky valuables. These may be rented by the month or year and are especially useful for persons who are away from home for extended periods.

A long list of customers who have waited for two years to rent the boxes almost exhausted the supply as soon as they were installed.
