

"Dusty" Was Children's Friend

More than one small boy and girl and many adults were saddened this week to learn of the death on Sunday of "Dusty," Sally and Jud Hauck's ten-year-old St. Bernard.

"Dusty" was a village character, whose gentle disposition endeared her to parents and children alike. Though she enjoyed company of grown folks she loved the companionship of children, often waiting for them on their porches until they arose in the morning.

In summer and winter she watched them, following them faithfully or resigning herself to a mauling by a dozen encircling arms or as many young riders.

She was a faithful attendant at the library story hour where she listened attentively to Janet Smith read Mother Goose stories as she does in the picture above.

When Joe Peterson went to Charlie Gregory's for a hair cut, "Dusty" waited, her huge bulk sprawled on the floor in front of Arlie Bowman's cash register next door. No amount of coaxing by oldsters could move her; but a sharp "Here, Dusty" from a little boy half her size, would rouse her to immediate obedience and the two would saunter out of the way of grown folks.

Dusty died alone and quietly sometime Sunday. Jim Beseker saw her on his porch, where the kids congregate, early Sunday morning; but when Jud and Sally, John and Kitty Hauck got up, she was no where to be seen. That evening John found her stretched out on the cellar floor of their home on Norton Avenue—dead of a heart attack.

Joe Peterson waiting on the doorstep at the Post Monday morning broke the news to the editor. These were his words: "I've news for you, Mr. Risley—sad news. Dusty is dead."

FROM PILLAR TO POST

By Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks, Jr.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harding of Raleigh, North Carolina, on May 28, a daughter. Mrs. Harding is the former Barbara Hicks, daughter of Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks of Dallas.

Died, on May 30, Major M. L. Todd, of Charleston, South Carolina. Major Todd was the father of Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks. There is an awesome cycle to this business of life and death. A child is born, thrusting himself eagerly through the gates of life. A weary traveller knocks gratefully upon the gates of death.

To the child, the joy and the burden of living; to the invalid successe from pain, the knowledge that life has been lived to the full, that the lights of the harbor are in sight. The unknown at either end of the life span.

William H. Schmoll, 67, died suddenly at his home in East Dallas Wednesday evening of a heart attack. Farm Float In Sweet Valley Parade

Hill Top Farm, owned by Alfred Bronson, had this float in the Sweet Valley Parade on Monday. Driving the team is Lawrence Smith, farm manager, and his father Harry Smith, while Mrs. Lawrence Smith is the milk maid. The cow is one of the farm's pure bred Holsteins.

There were more than forty floats in the parade which lasted almost an hour and a half. According to State Police estimate almost 10,000 persons witnessed the parade. Granges from Jackson, Lehman, Bloomingdale and Roaring Brook had attractive floats as did many business firms. One depicting a seashore resort scene was entered by the Highway Diner.

Pennsylvania State Police, Veterans' organizations and the bands from high schools in Shickshinny, Lehman, Dallas and Kingston Township all were received with acclaim.

The pictures above are among more than 100 taken by Elwood Hudson, Post photographer. Mr. Hudson, with two assistants, also used $100 worth of colored movie film to produce movies of the parade which will later be shown by Sweet Valley Firemen.

Lehman's Mother Goose Float

Pictured above is one of nine Mother Goose Scenes depicted in a series of floats which made up one of the sections. This one entered by Lehman shows Little Miss Muffet and the giant Spider as well as Curly Locks. Mrs. Bryce Major had charge of its production.

Meeker entered Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary and Ten Little Indians. The flowers in Mary's garden were little girls in flower costumes. Lake-ton's float showed the Days of the Week while Pike's Creek's entry was Old King Cole with his Fiddlers Three.

Sweet Valley entered four, Peter Pumpkin Eater, Polly Put the Kettle On, Little Boy Blue and the Old Lady in A Shoe. The shoe in which the old lady lived was more than 15 feet long.

Irem Horse Show Is Cancelled

A caldron that has been seething for some time boiled over at a business meeting of Irem Temple in Wilkes-Barre Wednesday night, and the third annual Horse Show of Irem Temple's Mounted Patrol scheduled for July 29, 30, 31st and August 1st has been called off.

For some time the Mounted Patrol has wanted to obtain a long term lease of the Country Club grounds on which the show has been held so that the Patrol could develop more ambitious plans.

Those opposed to the lease contended that the Patrol is a part of Irem Temple and that the show has been conducted as a Temple project ostensibly for charity and there is no reason for any Temple unit to act independently.

Capt. Camp enlisted in Headquarters Battery of the old 109th Field Artillery Regiment in June, 1931. He worked his way up through the ranks and was commissioned Second Lieutenant in 1935 and was assigned to Battery D. He was inducted into Federal Service in 1941 with the 28th Division. Train Destroys Two Car Convoys Valued At $8,000

Delbert Meade Of Sweet Valley In Altoona Hospital

Damage estimated at $8,300 resulted when a Pennsylvania Railroad train smashed into two convoy trucks, owned by George Wesley, Sweet Valley and Willard Suttler, Shickshinny, at 3:45 A. M., Tuesday in Tyrone, 22 miles northeast of Altoona.

The trucks were headed for Toledo, en Route to pick up a load of cars when due to heavy fog, the drivers missed the road signs and came out on a dead end road just when No. 48 passenger train came through the crossing. Herbert Ross, Shickshinny, driving Suttler's truck jumped in time and escaped with minor bruises, but Delbert Meade, Sweet Valley, Wesley's driver, was in his cab when the train hit and suffered a fractured collar-bone and numerous other lacerations and bruises. He is now in the hospital at Altoona.

Mr. Wesley, who returned Thursday from a two day stay in Tyrone, where he inspected the damage and visited his driver, says that the spot where the accident occurred is one of the worst he has ever seen. The road comes to a dead end and is blind in all directions. He tells us that the accident can't be understood unless the spot where it took place is actually seen.

Wesley's Studebaker tractor and trailer were completely demolished while Suttler's trailer is destroyed beyond repair, but his tractor sustained damage amounting to about $500.

Mrs. Darte Gives Firemen $1,000

The new equipment received much favorable comment during its first public appearance at the Sweet Valley parade on Monday. It was brought here last week from Lansing, Michigan, by Chief Dennis Bonning, Robert Cooper, Louis Wilcox and Elmer Laskowski.

These four firemen also received several days of fire fighting training while in Lansing, including instruction in combatting wood, oil, gas and electrical fires.

Next meeting of the company will be held Monday night June 6 at Rome school when Schuyler Kase will be present to enroll students for a sixteen week's State Fire Fighting School. The public as well as all members are invited to attend.
