Sunday School Week September 19 to 26

National Sunday School Week will be observed throughout the State and Nation from September 19 to 26, and Governor Duff, noting the observance, has called for local campaigns in every borough, township and city "to stimulate Sunday School attendance."

"Pennsylvania, the very home of religious freedom in America, is an intensely religious Commonwealth," the Chief Executive commented. "It will be fitting and proper if Pennsylvania assumes a real leadership in this observance by local campaigns in every borough, township and city to stimulate Sunday School attendance and most important—to show increased attendance."

He noted that "it might be an excellent idea" to emphasize that Sunday Schools make better citizens, and that Sunday School teachers should be encouraged in their work with more adequate facilities provided for them to accomplish their mission.
