

Dallas Hunting Lodge Located In Excellent Big Game Country

One of the finest regions for hunting black bears in North America is located at Hills Grove, Sullivan County, fourteen miles below Dallas Hunting Lodge owned by twenty odd local sportsmen.

That was the opinion expressed a few nights ago on a national radio hookup by several of the country's leading sportsmen. Needless to say, the program gave John Yaple and Harold Flack, the club's founders, a big thrill.

They'd known all along that the club house was located in some of the best big game country in Pennsylvania but to say North America, is covering a lot of territory.

Dallas Hunting Lodge had its origin back in 1946 when Mrs. Harold Flack ran across a classified ad and called it to the attention of her husband. The Flacks, in company with John Yaple and Joe Hughes went up to Sullivan County to investigate the property and report their findings to some of their sportsman friends.

Shortly thereafter, the group purchased the 50 acres of land and an old farmhouse located in Forks Township, at the headwaters of the Little Loyalsock. It is about 6 1/2 miles below Dushore on Route 87 near World's End State Park.

As soon as the purchase was completed the group began to make improvements to the ten-room, hundred-year old house.

Today it has a 20-foot square living room with a 9-foot fireplace; a kitchen 18 feet square; a 9x12 card room; a 9x12 recreation room, and a 6x9 bath room with running water. On the second floor there are five large bedrooms with accommodations for forty persons.

Each year since the first, the club has followed a tree planting program and now has more than 12,000 larch, spruce, red pine and hemlock under cultivation. Many of the trees planted during the first year are now 3-feet high. Last year trees were planted on a hillside along a 100 foot stretch in the form of numerals 1947.

Members are Harold Flack, president; Marvin Briggs, vice president; Ross Lewin Treasurer; Joseph Hughes, John Yaple, Herbert Smith, Walter Elston, P. D. Clark, F. M. Kiefer, Andrew Bittenbender, Gus Condaras and A. G. Rutherford, all of the Back Mountain area; Wallace Linton and Lee Bolton, Philadelphia; Hume Daron, Russell Davis, Mark Cronin and Arthur Craze, Luzerne; Don Coughlin, Forty-Fort; Jack "Tiny" Hauser and Howard Lewis, Kingston.
