Miracle of Remodeling Provides Home for Vet

A MIRACLE OF REMODELING is demonstrated by these "Before" and "After" pictures of an abandoned horse barn which was turned into an attractive five-room cottage for a war veteran and his family in Montclair, N. J. The white clapboard siding is set-off with green shutters, and a roof of matching green asphalt shingles.

In remodeling the impossible sometimes is possible. The accompanying illustrations demonstrate the miracles that can be accomplished, even with an old horse barn, which was transformed into an attractive five-room cottage for a war veteran and his family, desperately in need of a home.

The run-down, abandoned barn stood in the backyard of a home with an acre of lawn in Montclair, New Jersey. The owner's son served as a Navy lieutenant in the war and was married in Florida. When he was demobilized, he came home with his wife and little daughter, and like so many other veterans, found no place to live unless they doubled-up with his family. He had given up his search for a home of his own when he got an inspiration from the abandoned barn where he had played as a youngster. He called in a friend, C. Wesley Townsend, a Montclair contractor, and put the problem up to him. Could he remodel the barn and make it a livable cottage? At first dubious, Townsend finally accepted the challenge and went to work. The result is a pleasant, white clapboard cottage, set off with green shutters and a roof of matching green, fire-resistant asphalt shingles, selected for their added protection and beauty.

Horse Stalls Now Living Room. On the first floor, where horses once munched hay, there is a large living room, 12 feet, six inches by 19 feet, six inches, with a brick fireplace; a bedroom, with adjoining lavatory; a compact kitchen and three storage closets. In the bedroom, the door to one of the stalls was kept intact, to give the appearance of a Dutch door, with the top and lower half swinging open. The only addition was a laundry room built on the side of the barn which became the rear of the cottage. The second floor, formerly the hay mow, contains the master bedroom, with four closets tucked away under the eaves, a nursery and bath. The dormer, through which hay was once hauled into the mow, now provides a window for the nursery. The only major structural problems confronting Mr. Townsend were overcoming the steepness of the steps which led to the mow; raising the rear half of the roof to provide additional headroom, and installing an adequate shower in the second-floor bath for the former lieutenant, who is a tall man.

The entire remodeling job required only a short time, but the young war veteran and his family were so eager to move in, they set up housekeeping in their new home before it was completed.
