Needlecraft News

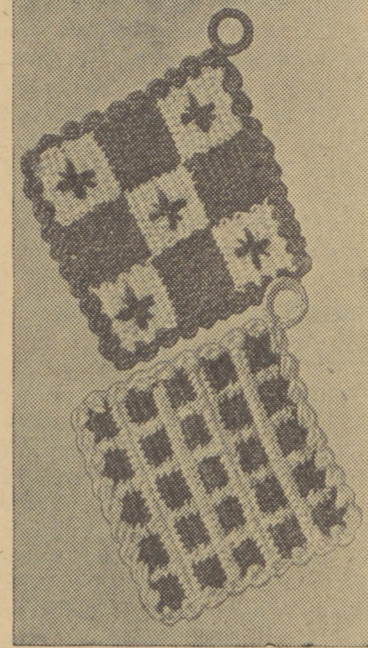

by Nancy Baxter

Some women seem to have a special flair for doing things and getting the best out of life. This talent has nothing to do with social standing or income. You will find these women in all walks of life. They make the most of what they have, and it is through this capacity for enjoying small pleasures that they acquire zest for life.

These women will add handmade edgings to pillow slips and linen towels. They will initial their sheets, exquisitely edge the shelving in linen closets. Small things, perhaps, but they add immeasurably to the atmosphere of a home.

If you would like to dress your home up with handmade touches, start with crochet. It doesn't take long to make a doily that will be decorative in every setting, invaluable to graceful entertaining. Use them on the dining table, on the tea table or tray, on your dresser or dressing table, under a lamp or candy dish. Lacy or sturdy, plain or ruffled, there's a doily for every purpose.

If a homemaker were asked, "What's the busiest spot in your home?" she would hesitatingly answer, "The kitchen." For the kitchen is the very nucleus of the household! Kitchen curtains should be gay, tablecloths should be pretty, and hot plate mats and potholders should reflect color. Put your crochet hook to work making a set or two of handy potholders. The set shown here can be crocheted of rug yarn for firmness. Both styles are worked in rows, changing colors as you go. The white sections of the one style are embroidered in lazy daisy stitch in the contrasting color. If you would like to obtain directions for making these CHECKED POTHOLDERS, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper, requesting Leaflet No. 5527.
