the winter trees seem a deeper green by comparison and after the first long rain when the forests have fully blossomed, the firs, hemlock and pine display a color that is almost black. One never tires looking at it.

"Oh! why," we said to the girl behind the counter, "doesn't someone one day write a pamphlet about the splendors of Harvey's Lake?"

FARM TOPICS

Prune Climbing Roses—Climbing roses which have completed their flowering should be pruned. Remove old canes; save those which send up new shoots from the roots. Climbing roses which bloom on laterals can be pruned later in the season. The old lateral branches should be cut away to within an inch of the main stems.

Chickens in Ample Supply—Supplies of chickens are expected to be ample through the coming months. Prices probably will fluctuate around present levels, but chickens and eggs of poor quality will sell off sharply. Storage holdings are low.

Renew Strawberry Bed—Where the old strawberry bed is to be held over for another year, an intensive cultural program must be followed. Destroy most of the old plants, leaving enough to send out runners, and apply a high-nitrogen fertilizer.

Control Leaf Hoppers—For control of leaf hoppers on beans, use two applications of DDT dust, 2 or 3 per cent, at 35 pounds per acre before blossoming. Apply preferably when the vines are dry.

Cut Lawns High—During hot, dry weather the lawn benefits from high (not less than 1½ inches) cutting. Low cutting encourages crabgrass.

Egg Buyers Benefit—Buyers who hold eggs for long periods under poor conditions reduce returns to producers and cut their own profits. Poor quality discourages future purchases by consumers. Unless buyers have proper equipment to hold eggs, they should ship frequently to the next receiver.

Paint Barn Inside—Paint is better than whitewash for the inside of the dairy barn. Whitewash is cheaper but flakes off and the particles sift down. Paint surfaces can be maintained in good condition and refinished.

Control Late Blight—Because late blight can strike potatoes and tomatoes suddenly and spread rapidly, causing possible heavy crop losses, county agricultural agents urge growers to be on the alert for these diseases, and offer full information on dust or spray control measures.

Tomatoes Still Lead—Judging from cultural practices and disease and insect control, extension vegetable specialists of the Pennsylvania State College say tomatoes continue to lead all garden crops from the standpoint of acreage planted and general popularity.

Farm Land Values Drop—Farm land values in the United States are going down for the first time in 10 years, one percent since November 1948. In Pennsylvania, however, farm land values have continued to rise, three percent since November.

Test Frozen Beef—Tests at the Pennsylvania State College Agricultural experiment station show that ground beef can be palatable after storage for a year in a freezer locker, provided the temperature and wrapping are right. Best results were obtained at 20 degrees below zero and with aluminum foil wrapping.

Farm Prices Drop—Since January 1948 farm prices have dropped 17 per cent but farm costs have been reduced only 2 per cent. During this same period the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar has decreased 10 per cent.
