Mrs. Sharpe's Hobby Provides Employment For Elderly Women

Mrs. Louise Sharpe, proprietor of the Golden Stork Gift Shop, divulged the interesting fact that she acts as agent for a group of elderly women in distributing their home-manufactured articles.

The ladies, whose ages are from 65 to 83 years, do their knitting, crocheting and smoking in their individual homes, scattered throughout Wyoming Valley. Orders from department stores and baby specialty shops are received by Mrs. Sharpe who forwards them to the makers. They design the clothing to specifications. The Golden Stork also retails many of the items.

Mrs. Sharpe has always enjoyed elderly women. Among the group is a retired school teacher, a retired concert pianist. A third once owned her own millinery shop and made frequent buying trips to Europe. While many requesting such work are talented, Mrs. Sharpe is careful to choose only those who are in good health and who live under the most sanitary conditions.

Circumstances permitting, Mrs. Sharpe plans to enlarge her shop in the spring by extending the front part of the building eighteen feet and bringing it to street level. Display windows will be added.
