Outstanding Poultry Men Business Started From Door to Door

L. A. Furneaux and son, Barry, former Back Mountain residents are now the operators of one of the largest poultry farms in Eastern Pennsylvania. A father and son combination, they have come a long way to their present success. Many local housewives remember when they operated in this area selling quality poultry and eggs from door-to-door.

But instead of the small operation of pre-war days, they now carry a weekly inventory of 5,000 chickens, plus a large supply of turkeys, ducks and capons.

All of these are raised on wire and are housed in a large Quonset Hut which the Furneauxs purchased from Government surplus. They have a fulltime job on their hands covering the entire Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area with their products.

Asked to what he attributed his success when so many others were abandoning the poultry business, Barry Furneaux answered a few days ago: "We have always handled quality, preached quality and thrived on quality." Then he added, "Remember one thing in business. To stay in business it is always 'quality that counts before price!'"

The Furneaux Poultry Farm is now located near Factoryville.

Remember Children Several weeks ago members of the Dallas Methodist Youth Fellowship spent an interesting day in Binghamton, N.Y. visiting the Wyoming Conference Children's Home.

To many it was a new experience to see the quarters of fifty boys and girls and to chat informally with workers and children.

It was soon learned that boys and girls of the home like "canned music" as well as their visiting friends. And it was discovered that one group of girls was in need of a record player.

Upon their return to Dallas plans were made to secure funds to buy a record player for the girls. Two Junior Classes of nine years old under the leadership of their teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Love, Claude street, raised the necessary funds, which have been forwarded to the home. The record player will be under the Christmas tree on Christmas Day and some happy girls will long remember some nine-year old boys and girls from the Dallas Church.
