Goodleigh Farm Produces World Champion Cow

Farm Has Had Seven State and Two World Champion Guernseys

Goodleigh Farm, with four guernsey class leaders to its credit, announces the winner of its second world championship as reported in the March issue of the Guernsey Breeder's Journal. Goodleigh Eolus Herina, nine years old, an age at which most cows are falling off in quantity and quality of production, has just completed the 305-day test for milk and butter fat, complying with rigid specifications laid down by the Pennsylvania State College.

Since 1942, Goodleigh Farm, owned by Colonel Dorrance Reynolds and operated by Miss Mary Weir, has had seven state champions, four of them in the past year. Miss Weir reports that one of the heifers from the herd bloodline, Goodleigh Consort Sunola, sold to W. R. German, Starks, Maryland, some years ago, has recently established a world's record for milk and butterfat. It was Goodleigh Consort Manette who hung up a world's record in 1948.

Another heifer, Goodleigh Romulus Sunflower, sold to W. B. Brooks of Ontario in 1948, has been so satisfactory that Mr. Brooks is now back at Goodleigh Farm to negotiate for the possible purchase of more stock from the same bloodline. He is accompanied by William Nesser, Ottawa.

In connection with the semi-annual visit of Roger Bacon, Berlin, Massachusetts to Goodleigh Farm for the hoof-trimming of the herd, now in process, Miss Weir states that cows are milk machines and that they must be kept comfortable in order to produce their maximum quantity. Leaving nothing to chance, Miss Weir employs Mr. Bacon for a week twice a year, to trim the hoofs not only of the milk cows but of the bulls and the young stock.

Miss Weir, outstanding in her field, and one of the two women farm managers in this section of the country, was interviewed last week by Miss Anna Mannion, Women's Professional Club, N.Y. for the club publication.
