

Ernest Townend Buried Thursday

Locally Prominent Man Dies Suddenly

Ernest Sharps Townend, West Union street, Wilkes-Barre, was buried last Thursday from his home with members of the immediate family in attendance and Rev. Burke Rivers, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, officiating.

Interment was in Forty Fort Cemetery.

Mr. Townend was the victim of a sudden heart attack Monday morning. He had driven to his furniture store in Wyoming as usual, an establishment founded by his great grandfather, John Townend in 1857, and a family concern ever since that date. The heart attack culminated nine years of infrequent heart attacks, so was not entirely unexpected.

Dallas was acquainted with him as a summer resident, occupying the bungalow next door to Twin Spruces, the year-round home of Mrs. Mae Townend, one of two surviving sisters.

The family stems from early pioneer days, three of them in Wyoming Valley at the time of the Massacre—Philip Myers, Thomas Bennet, and James Stark.

Mr. Townend is survived by his wife, the former Edith Turner; three children, Mrs. Abram Nesbitt 2nd, of Dallas, Ernest S. Townend, Kingston, Mrs. William C. Butler Jr., Conyngham; four grandchildren, Adam Nesbitt 3d, Alice Plat Townend, Edith Turner Townend, and William C. Butler, 3d; two sisters, Mrs. Mae Townend, Dallas, and Mrs. Carroll A. Garner, Hazleton. Bearers were Theodore Potts, Frank Townend, Eugene Townend, Henry Townend, Donald Turner, and John Garner.

Local Senior Scout Presents Report

Elizabeth McQuilkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McQuilkin, Dallas, reported on Senior Scout activities for Wyoming Valley Council, Girl Scouts, at the Sectional Conference held at Coughlin High School on Saturday.

Elizabeth, herself a Senior Service Scout, capped two years ago, talked about requirements for capping, stressing the two aspects, educational and practical. Senior Girl Scouts who are preparing to be capped as Senior Service Scouts must complete studies on National Scouting and also show themselves capable of preparing a meal or coping with usual household problems. A capped scout must agree to remain a Girl Scout for at least one year after the investiture.

Dr. Marjorie G. Morrison, Lebanon, was the speaker of the day, touching upon the value of scouting as a preparation for a career and for marriage.

A buffet supper and a dance followed the business sessions.

Back Mt. Lumber Co. Lighting Wins Award For Electricians

Two Back Mountain men were among four electricians honored Wednesday at a luncheon in Hotel Sterling for their part in the prize winning lighting installation in the new Back Mountain Lumber Company building in Shavertown.

They were: Phillip Mosier, Shavertown electrical contractor, Lee Sippel, General Electric Supply Co., also of Shavertown; Charles Romberger, lighting supervisor of Luzerne County Gas & Electric Corp., and Mitchell J. Davis, Hopkins Brothers, Wilkes-Barre.

J. G. Henninger, Druid Hills, district representative of the lamp department of General Electric, announced that the four men were co-winners of a national award for outstanding ability in the design and installation of lighting systems.

The Back Mountain Lumber Co. lighting installation is considered by experts as not only outstanding in this area but one of the best in the country.

Attending the luncheon were: C. E. Warsaw, president Luzerne County Gas and Electric Corp., E. S. Zuck, J. L. Brownlee, O. E. Mat-ter, D. R. Thomas, C. E. Romberger of the same company; Mr. Sippel, Mr. Mosier, Mr. Davis, Mr. Henninger and K. C. Larabee of General Electric, Newark.

Light Standards Bite the Dust

Motorist Gets Both At Once

There won't be any blinkers at the dangerous Center street intersection in Shavertown for two weeks to come, but traffic officers will be on hand to curb that yen to speed.

Lou Banta arrived on the scene of the accident at 3:30 Saturday morning, after Joseph Gushka, 180 Oliver street, Swoyerville, had connected with both light poles on his way home from Harvey's Lake, missing the telephone pole by some miracle, but doing $350 damage to his car. Mr. Gushka, explaining that he went to sleep at the wheel, came out of the crash without a scratch.

Lou hadn't been dragged from bed by this accident, but by an altercation between two motorists as to who scratched whose fender and who was liable for the bill, a few minutes before 3:30, so he was right on tap when the traffic lights went.
