Lay Plans For Library Growth

Executive Board Discusses Project

Ten ative plans for most effective use of the newly acquired building, the former Parrish house, next door to the Back Mountain Memorial Library, Main street, Dallas, were discussed at the Executive Board meeting Tuesday evening.

With expansion facilities imperative, because of a steadily grow-ing volume of books and an increased demand for space for meetings, purchase of a supplementary building in usable condition instead of construction of an addition to the present library has seemed advisable. A long-range plan may result in a connecting link of modern construction between the two almost identical houses, at some time in the future when costs of materials and labor may be more moderate.

Harry Ohlman, Howard Risley and Raymon Hedden will confer on possibilities, reporting to a special meeting of the Executive Board to be called by Miss Frances Dorrance, president, when tentative plans have been completed.

Present at the meeting: Miss Frances Dorrance, Miss Miriam Lathrop, Mrs. Lewis LeGrand, Mrs. Fred Howell, Harry Ohlman, Howard Risley, and Mrs. T. M. B. Hicks.

WHAT COLOR DO YOU WANT JOHN AND DAN TO PAINT YOUR NEW WASTEBASKET?

John Ferry and Dan Robinhold have gone into business together, carrying out a wastebasket project which they started last year. It is John's basement on Machell avenue that furnishes space for painting the two-gallon ice cream containers salvaged from Kuehn's Drug Store.

John, seventh grader in Dal-las Borough High School and equipped with one more tooth than nature intended (ask John for the details), says that he and Dan, sixth grader, are equipped to finish their wastebaskets in almost any shade of four-hour enamel desired, and with a variety of decals for decoration. The ice cream container, cleaned and dried, takes two coats of enamel which serve to preserve and further stiffen the waterproof cardboard. The sample which sat on the Dallas Post counter on Tuesday afternoon was tulip crimson with a Teddy Bear decal on its side.

Postal Inspector Makes Survey Within Mile Radius Of Dallas

Charles Reese, United States Postal inspector has this week been conducting a survey of streets within a mile radius of Dallas Postoffice with a view toward making recommendations for carrier delivery of mail.

House to house delivery has been in the cards for sometime and recently Dallas Borough Council petitioned the Postal Department to put it into-effect

Two of the requirements are that houses are numbered and street signs erected. Sidewalks also must be in good condition. Council has complied with the request for street signs and will have them erected shortly. Citizens who wish to cooperate and do not know the numbers of their homes can obtain them by calling Borough Engineer John Jeter any evening

Areas which will come within the mile radius of the Postoffice are Goss Manor, Dallas Heights, Center Hill road and Midland Drive as well as other streets in the Borough.

Dallas Township Supervisors have been asked to erect street signs and have homes numbered in the areas lying in the township.

Village delivery will require the services of two additional carriers at the Postoffice. If approved by the Postal Department, it is Inspector Reese's opinion that service morrow afternoon under new grid will start before Christmas. Much mentor, Bob Thomas. Dupont will be the opponent for the first game Flood for his effort to have the survey made and to bring the Coach Thomas has installed matter to the attention of the Postoffice Department.
