

Skopic Appointed Local Diesel Dealer

Joseph Skopic, Lehman Heights, is now an authorized dealer for Sheppard Diesel tractors and farm implements, and has them on display at his establishment on Route 115.

The Sheppard Company has been one of the pioneer diesel engine manufacturers over the past eighteen years and produces two power units, two three-plow units and two four-plow units as well as other models.

Aside from its simplicity of construction and of operation the Sheppard diesel tractor is claimed to save approximately seventy-five percent on fuel costs.

Mr. Skopic will be glad to demonstrate this newest diesel on any farm or power job.

It's Hard To Believe

It's hard to believe, but Chief Tregaskis writes that just a week ago Monday night, he and his son, Frankie, gathered a pint of night-walkers on their lawn in Franklin Township. A week later strong winds blew his backhouse off its foundation and snow piled high in the hedgerows.

Carl Walters Dies Of Weak Heart

Attempts To Return To Work, Drops Dead

Carl W. Walters, Carpenter road, Harvey's Lake, died suddenly on Friday after a short illness of combined pneumonia and pleurisy from which he thought he had sufficiently recovered to go back to work. Realizing that he felt unwell, he went to his mother's house at 72 East Ross street, Wilkes-Barre, close to his place of employment at Anthony Wideman's meat market, and dropped dead from a weakened heart.

His wife, summoned from New York where she had been having medical attention, was shocked at the circumstance, as Carl, more widely known as Mike, had never been ill.

His mother, Mrs. Catherine Walters, 88 years old, has lost her only son, born to her long after normal child-bearing years, and very close. With his business place near at hand, he had always eaten dinner with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Walters had been living at Harvey's Lake only a little over two years, having built a new home there so that they could live in the hills.

Born in Wilkes-Barre and educated at St. Vincent's, he was a member of St. Nicholas Church and the Holy Name Society. He enjoyed all forms of sports, hunted, fished, and bowled.

Mr. Walters is survived by his wife, the former Eleanor Myers; his mother; four sisters, Mrs. Jacob Reinhardt, Mrs. Jacob J. Lisman, and Mrs. Emma Baiz, all of Wilkes-Barre, and Elizabeth, at home. There are no children.

He was buried from St. Nicholas Church with a requiem mass celebrated at 9:30 Tuesday morning, and interred in St. Nicholas cemetery, Shavertown.

Bearers were: Jack Nothoff, Melvin Watkins, Francis Reinhardt, Robert Hayward, Carl Fried, Harry Jones.
