NATURE'S CHILDREN TOO ARE VICTIMS OF STORMS

Game Protector E. M. Woodward, Bedford, reports "On October 29 we had a bad thunderstorm. That afternoon a phone call notified me that deer had been killed on a farm in Juniata Township. An electric fence runs through a field there. During the storm lightning struck this fence and killed 3 young cows. About 300 feet from the dead cattle lay a large 7 point buck, also a victim of lightning. The hair was burned the length of all of its legs."

PHEASANTS ROUT ENEMIES

Two game protectors recently submitted stories attesting to the fighting courage of male pheasants in encounters with—of all animals—domestic cats.
